AEROPLANE RAIDERS KILL 76 IN LONDON

More Than 100 Wounded in Daylight Raid by 16 German Aeroplanes—Three of the Raiders Shot Down—Most Disastrous Aerial Raid of the War.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

London, May 26.—Germany has struck another blow in an effort to terrorize England.

Sixteen air craft, the greatest number ever to take part in a single raid against England, attacked the southeastern part of the country on Friday, killing 76 persons and wounding 177 others.

News of the raid was officially announced by the government today.

Violent fire was directed against the raiders by batteries of high-angle guns while British airmen soared aloft to give battle. Three of the raiders all aeroplanes, were shot down.

England has been plunged into a storm of indignation by the number of women and children killed and wounded. Of these killed, 27 were women, and 23 children. Forty-three women and 19 children were wounded.

This latest aerial drive was carried out in daylight Friday afternoon between the hours of 5:15 and 6:30 o'clock.

Many bombs were dropped at numerous points, but, according to the official statement, most of the damage occurred above the North Sea between German air craft and a fleet of British naval planes.

One British flier engaged three German aeroplanes, destroying one of them.

All the way across the North Sea on their return, the Germans were followed and harassed by the British.

The admiral announced that the British had been victorious in all these encounters, and that all the British aeroplanes returned safely.

Word of the presence of raiders above the southeast of England was flashed to Danzig, France, and British air men operating from that base went forth in an effort to overtake and attack them.

In connection with the German raid the admiral announced that their aviators had bombarded the German aerodrome at Denwestrah.

This latest German air raid over England was the second in three days. Early Thursday morning, four or five German aircraft flew over the eastern coast, dropping bombs.

Whether the Germans tried to attack London yesterday was not known, as the official reports given out in London did not give the names of the places attacked.

The use of the word "aerodrome" in the official communications indicated that Zeppelins had taken part as well as aeroplanes. It was regarded as possible that the Zeppelins may have been convoyed by fleet German battle planes to protect them from British air patrols.

Assuming that all of the victims yesterday were civilians, the total number of non-combatants killed in England by German raiders was brought up to 304.

The total amount collected in the little banks was $150.10.

In acknowledging the receipt of this sum, the New York office says in a letter to Mrs. Hutton.

"We wish to assure you of our gratitude for the excellent results obtained in your city. The aggregate was most satisfactory and argues strenuous effort on your part. We must congratulate you warmly on the splendid success attained."

The detailed amounts collected by the clubs were:

Monday Afternoon Sewing Club $11.70
Ladies Club 16.40
Twenty-first Century Club 8.40
Monday Club 10.70
The Coterie 17.90
Athletic Club 23.10
Saskatchewan Club 6.10

In addition to these, the banks given out to individuals totalled $55.80.

Mrs. Hutton desires to thank all who so willingly aided her in making this collection a success.

POSTMASTER DEYO DEAD AT SARANAC

Widely Known Business Man and Active Democrat—Had Been Ill Nearly Two Years—Had Gone to Saranac Lake on Wednesday.

Postmaster Sylvester R. Deyo died Friday night at Saranac Lake, where he was taken Wednesday evening by his wife and Dr. Daniel Connelly in the hope that the change would aid in the recovery of his health.

Death was due to a complication of diseases. He had been ill since the summer of 1915.

Mr. Deyo was a native of New Paltz and was a son of David Deyo, who was a well known resident of that place. For the past thirty years he had been a resident of Kingston, during which time he was engaged in the elder manufacturing business. The business was one of the largest of its kind in this section of the country and annually filled large contracts, including many contracts with the United States Government.

For many years he had been president of the S. R. Deyo Company. Politically Mr. Deyo was a Democrat, and for many years had been prominent and active in the Democratic organization in this city and county. During the administration of Mayor Irwin he served as city assessor. On January 26, 1915, his appointment as postmaster was sent to the Senate by the president, and he was confirmed by the Senate several days later. He assumed his duties as postmaster on February 16 following. In the mid-summer of 1915 he became ill and for a time was required by his physicians to occupy a cottage in the Catskills. He also visited the Adirondacks and other health resorts.

Mr. Deyo married Miss Davis, daughter of John Davis of this city who with two sons, Albert J. Deyo and Percy Deyo survive him. He is also survived by two brothers, John R. Deyo and Moses Deyo, who have been associated with him in the elder manufacturing business, and one sister, Mrs. Esther Wells of New York city.

The funeral will take place from his late residence, No. 15 Downs street, on Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

DATE FIXED FOR "PAY UP WEEK"

Chamber of Commerce Sets Aside Week of June 4 to 9 for Campaign in Which All Are Urged to Unite.

Friday evening the Chamber of Commerce decided to set aside the week of June 4 to 9 to be known as "Pay Up Week," and Mayor Canfield will issue a proclamation stating the purpose of the week. It was also decided to order 25,000 stickers bearing the slogan "Do Your Bit, Pay Up Week, June 4 to 9," same to be printed and distributed. A systematic advertising campaign will also be set in motion. E. F. MacFadden of the Van Wagenen Company expressed the opinion at the meeting that close on $100,000 would change hands that week. The idea as set forth at the meeting was for every one to make an effort to pay up bills they owe.

An effort is being made to interest every merchant and professional man in Kingston in the movement. The downtown committee has already enlisted the cooperation of eighteen of the downtown business men, and a large number in the uptown and central sections of the city have agreed to cooperate in making this a city wide movement in the right direction.

WHY THEY SMILE.
Trolley Employees Receive Increase of 2 Cents an Hour.

Patrons of the trolley road have noticed that the motormen and conductors on both the Kingston City and Colonial divisions of the trolley road have been wearing a broad smile the past few days. The reason is simple, for they have been notified that they have received an increase in pay of two cents an hour, which with old Mr. H. C. O. L. knocking at the door is welcome news for any one to receive these days. The increase went into effect May 20. It means that all of the men who have been employed for the past nine years will now receive 27 cents an hour instead of 25 cents as heretofore. Fully 90 per cent of the force have worked with the road nine years. The other motormen and conductors who have not served nine years will also receive the two cents an hour increase in their pay.

Other notable sections of the new law follow:

"Upon approaching a pedestrian who is in the traveled part of any street and not upon a sidewalk, and upon approaching an intersecting street, or a curve, or a corner in the street where the driver's view is obstructed and where a traffic officer is not on duty, every driver of a vehicle shall slow down and give a timely and sufficient signal with his voice, horn or other signaling device."

Reckless Driving. Defined as unnecessarily interfering with the free and proper use of a highway or unnecessarily endangering users of the highway is made punishable for a first offense by a fine of up to $100; and a second offender may be fined up to $100 and put in jail for up to six months.

GROVES AND STOCK IN NAVAL RESERVE

Friday Attorney Robert F. Groves and Edward J. Stock went to New York city and passed the examination and have been admitted in the United States Naval Reserve, and are now awaiting orders to report for duty. Mr. Groves is one of the most popular members of the Ulster county bar and is a brother of former Recorder Harry F. Groves. Mr. Stock is a son of Nicholas Stock of the firm of Stock & Corliss, and is employed in the store. Both young men are well known and popular residents of the lower section of the city.

SPARKS FROM THE WAR ANVIL

By Telegram to The Freeman.

London.—British naval experts today predicted a new "drive" by German submarines against allied shipping in June. May has been an off month for the U-boats, following the heavy shipping casualties in April. The work of the American destroyers is arousing much enthusiastic comment. British naval officers say the men are keenly anxious to get at the Germans.

The Hague.—It was reported from Berlin today that Germany and Austria are to make a new commercial treaty following negotiations that have lasted twelve months.

London.—Leaders of both the Nationalists and Unionists today expressed the hope that the chairman of the "Irish government convention" will be an Irishman. It was contended that an Irishman could enter into the sympathy of the conference with a better spirit than one who is not Irish. It is believed that the convention will be made up of between 50 and 75 members. According to the Nation, the chairman-ship was offered former Premier Asquith, but he refused it.

New York.—"No slackers wanted." The Society of Friends will hand out such a sign if the suggestion of James Wood, president of the New York society, is carried out at the annual meeting Monday. He will introduce a resolution "advising" young men of conscription age to postpone application for admission during the war period.

Paris.—Cereals and coal are the greatest needs of France at present. M. Violette, French food minister, said today that he hoped America would send first cereals and then coal to relieve the shortage here. Sufficient cereals will be needed to last until crops are harvested in August.

London, May 26.—"Give us a song, boys," cried women Red Cross nurses as they were being driven to a hospital ship at the entrance to the English Channel. The soldiers on the deck of the sinking ship at once struck up "Tipperary" and "Back to Dear Old Blighty."

Boston.—Armed with powers absolutely dictatorial in their scope, Governor McCall today is empowered to seize foodstuffs for the people of Massachusetts and to fix the maximum and minimum prices. The extraordinary powers were vested in the governor by the Commonwealth defense act, passed by the legislature just before it prorogued the 1917 session at 2:24 this morning, after having been in continuous session for 15 hours.

Panama City.—Passengers on the French steamship Haiti, which has arrived at a Latin-American port, reported that the ship sank a German submarine shortly after leaving Bordeaux. Later another "U" boat tried to attack the Haiti, but was successfully eluded. This information was given by several passengers, including M. De la Pousse, French minister to Peru.

Amsterdam.—German newspapers have adopted a belligerent tone toward the peace speech recently delivered by Premier Briand of France. The German press has contained aggressive comment upon that portion of the French statesman's address which demanded the return of Alsace and Lorraine to France. The Lokal Anzeiger attacks the French Socialist for backing up the French Premier's terms and says that their attitude "should make German Socialists furious."

Paris.—A high officer of the French army declared today that Germany has at least three million men under arms, not including Austro-Hungarians and Turks. Of these, he added, 154 divisions are fighting the French and British and 66 are on the eastern front.

London.—Maximilian Harden, famous German publicist, is again preaching peace and warning the Germans not to underestimate the strength of the United States, says a dispatch printed in the Times today. By September, says Harden in his paper, Die Zukunft, the United States can have 500,000 men trained and ready for fighting on the French front.

THIRTY KILLED IN KANSAS TORNADO

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Hutchinson, Kas., May 26.—At least 30 persons today are known to have been killed, and nearly 100 injured, many fatally, in a tornado which swept through Harvey and Sedgewick counties last night. The property loss may reach $1,000,000.

Andale, a village of 250, in the south-central part of the state, was hardest hit by the twister, which was accompanied by rain and sleet. Eighteen lives were lost in the village, and practically all of the houses torn from their foundations before the tornado swept on to the northwest.

Sweeping through Newton in a path a quarter of a mile wide, the twister veered off and skirted the edge of Sedgewick, nibbling away only a few houses on the edge of the town. A report that several lives were lost in Howard, Elk county, could not be confirmed. A special train, carrying doctors and nurses, was dispatched from here shortly before daylight.

The tornado arose so suddenly that telegraph and telephone wires were snapped before a warning could be flashed. The bodies of most of the victims were brought here.

JOCELYN TO GROW POLELESS POLE BEANS

Luther Burbank has nothing on Farmer Seth Jocelyn, who has charge of the farm in the rear of the Ulster county jail and court house property. Some time ago Sheriff Shultz decided to plow up the ground and plant it to garden truck to supply the inmates of the jail and this spring when everyone was urged to plant a garden the sheriff placed Night Jailer Jocelyn in charge of the garden and since then things have been kept moving.

Determined not to have the California "wonder" discover all of the new vegetables, Mr. Jocelyn set about seeking a new vegetable for his garden and has at last found a miracle bean. It is a poleless pole bean. This bean has been planted exclusively in the jail garden by Mr. Jocelyn and Jailer Bob Evory, and will undoubtedly attract a great deal of attention before the summer is past. Being next the office occupied by the Ulster County Farm Bureau, it is expected that Manager Hook, of the bureau, will be able to personally observe its progress. The bean planted by Mr. Jocelyn is the ordinary pole bean but there will be no poles used. He has planted the beans along the high iron fence surrounding the jail grounds and when the beans come up they are expected to climb over the fence. This will not only save the labor of placing poles but will also cover up the fence and utilize space which would otherwise be unused. Also the crop will be handy for passersby to pick.

SCHWARTZ BUYS HIS LIBERTY BOND

Ten Minutes in Jail Enough to Cause Him to Pay Judgment Imposed by City Court.

Louis Schwartz, whom Judge Brinnier decided must pay $31.50 damages and costs amounting to a total of $45.96 for having damaged the property of Jacob Balsam at 90 Broadway, was arrested Friday afternoon on a body execution. The action was tried in city court before Judge Brinnier and Friday morning a decision was handed down. Henry Klein with Joseph M. Fowler of counsel appeared at the recent trial for the plaintiff and Milton Auchmoody for Mr. Schwartz. The charge against Schwartz was for damage done the property on Broadway after the owner had notified him to vacate.

When Schwartz refused to pay the judgment of $31.50 and costs, a body execution was issued and he was arrested. When brought to jail he refused to pay the amount and although the attorneys in the case urged him to comply with the law he decided to go to jail first.

When it was seen that he would not pay he was locked in jail where he served a ten minute sentence and then decided that it would be better to buy his liberty bond immediately. The attorneys in the case were notified that he had decided to pay the amount and ten minutes after being placed behind the bars he settled and was again a free man. From a large roll of bills Schwartz extracted the necessary $45.96 and departed.

Boys Damage Gardens.

A complaint has been made to Recorder Lang of school boys on the way home from school using President's Place as a short cut and trampling through the flower garden and picking flowers. The police dockets show that several years ago a boy was sent to Randall's Island for the same offense, and if any more complaints are made arrests will follow.

OBJECTORS CAN'T MAKE ANY TROUBLE

Rules for Registration Day, June 5, Provide for Efficient and Expedient Disposition for All Who Would Violate Law—Jail for Refusal to Answer.

Albany, N. Y., May 26.—Men of a belligerent frame of mind who object to registering under the federal conscription act will not be able to make trouble on registration day, June 5, if orders sent to the registrars who are to ask all questions and write all answers on the cards are obeyed.

"Be patient in explanation but in no event enter into any discussion," reads the rules sent to the registrars. "If the person is sullen or if he is inclined to falsify, evade or refuse to answer, call his attention to the law which imposes a penalty of imprisonment for such conduct. If he is still refractory, do not delay the registration, but call witnesses, take a note of the witnesses to the occurrence, and after explaining the penalty of the law and giving him full opportunity to reconsider, report the case to the county registration board, who will swear out a warrant for his arrest."

"This is your sworn duty, for the neglect of which you yourself become liable as a misdemeanant, and it is the duty of the registration board to appear to the court and bring upon your complaint. Proper forbearance should be shown, but the registration must not be delayed or obstructed and persons obstructing it must be dealt with promptly and firmly."

Refusal to make proper answers to the registrars' questions make the offender liable to a jail sentence of up to a year, at the end of which he is still liable to military duty. The registration places will be open from 7 o'clock in the morning until 9 o'clock at night. The authorities are desirous that this statement be made to correct a misapprehension that the places of registration were to close two hours earlier.

All of the registrars in New York state will serve without compensation, but strict rules have been made for them. In the first place each must take oath that he "will not answer that I know to be untrue." In polling places where there is only one registrar, he must bring his own lunch, and may take twenty minutes for his evening meal, from 5 o'clock until 5:45. Voluntary assistance may be accepted but in all cases such volunteers must take the necessary oath.

The registrars have a very important duty to perform in addition to asking questions of each person who appears to register, and writing down the answers. As soon as the last of the twelve questions is answered and before the person registering has signed, the registrar must mark on the back of the card whether the man is tall, medium or short, slender, medium or stout; the color of his eyes; the color of his hair or whether he is bald; whether he has lost an arm, leg, hand, foot or both eyes, or is otherwise disabled. Other disabilities to be considered are whether the man is a hunchback, or has a withered limb, or any glaring or complete disability.

When the necessary data has been written in, the person registering must verify all his answers, affirm their truth, and sign the card or make his mark.

Persons registering are urged by the governor to consider carefully their answer to question nine, which is: Have you a mother, father, wife, child under twelve, or a sister or brother under twelve, solely dependent upon you for support?

"Consider your answer thoughtfully," the rules say. "If it is true that there is another mouth than your own which you alone have a duty to feed, do not let your military ardor interfere with the wish of the nation to reduce war's misery to a minimum. On the other hand, unless the person you have in mind is solely dependent on you, do not hide behind petticoats or children. Remember this answer alone will not exempt you from liability to service."

The twelfth question: Do you claim exemption from draft? also is the subject of special instructions. Those who register are told that "because you claim exemption from draft, if by no means follows that you are exempt," and they are urged to be specific in their claim for exemption, being sure that their excuse for the claim is in conformity with answers to other questions.

Will Entertain Peacock Peace.

Monday the Rev. L. K. Peacock and his evangelistic party will arrive in Kingston on the Day Line and will be met at Kingston Point and taken for an automobile ride around the Ashokan reservoir and other points of interest. While in Kingston they will be entertained at the home of Mrs. Girard L. McEntee on West Chestnut street and will return to Jersey City on Tuesday morning. As told elsewhere they will hold a reunion service Monday evening in the Delaware Avenue Tabernacle.

Red Lights on Duty.

Kingston's silent cops are now on duty after the curfew rings at night, guarding the busy street corners. Red lights have been placed on top of the standards and are lighted at night. Until the red lights were placed the standards had been taken in off the roadways during the evening.

Telephone Company Lost Check.

A communication from Ralph D. Clearwater, local manager of the commercial department of the New York Telephone Company, stated that the company's bill rendered November 1, 1916, was still unpaid on the books of the company although the board held the company's receipt, indicating that the warrant had been lost in the telephone office as it had not been returned to the city treasurer. The company asked that a duplicate warrant be issued, which was granted on payment of the outstanding check being stopped.

Chemicals Are Scarce.

The committee on supplies reported it had solicited bids for chemical and physical apparatus and chemicals from all local dealers, but had received only one reply, from C. L. Bridge, who stated that it was impossible to give prices for more than twenty-four hours ahead on account of the chaotic condition of the chemical and apparatus market, and calling attention in this respect to the requisition made by the United States government for certain supplies to be packed in glass, which resulted in the discovery that there was not sufficient glass containers in the United States to hold the supplies, the requisition subsequently being withdrawn. The matter was referred to Superintendent Michael with power.

Report on High School Robbery.

Superintendent Michael submitted a report on the robbery of the high school, which occurred during the night of Thursday, May 10, when a window in the manual training department was forced open. The burglar forced the desk of Robert J. The door of the closet was locked with a Vassar lock, which Chief of Police Wood had been able to unlock with no other instrument than a pen-knife. The police had been unable to find any clue although they had taken a number of finger print marks found there. Of the amount taken $153.28 was in the custody of the board and $110.74 was not in the custody of the board.

The Lunch Counter Fund.

Accompanying Superintendent Michael's report was the following:

May 21, 1917.

Mr. M. J. Michael, Superintendent, Kingston City Schools.

Dear Sir:

Since the high school robbery, in which the sum of $150.14, the question has been asked the cashier and me why we had as much money as this on hand when we were supposed to be running the lunch room on a cost basis.

I fully appreciate that you understand.

for YOUR head.

STREET GOSSIP ABOUT TOWN

"Well I see where the governor has signed the local option bills" said the friend to the street corner politician.

"So I noticed in the newspapers," replied the politician.

"What is the provisions of the Brown bill as it is known?" queried the friend.

"The way I understand it," explained the politician "it increases the license fees to about $900 a year and provides for only one saloon to every five hundred people."

"Don't the mayor have to appoint some sort of a commission?" asked the friend.

"Yes the mayor within twenty days has to appoint three men who shall decide what saloons shall be allowed a license," said the politician.

"But the bill will wipe out some saloons anyway, won't it?" asked the friend.

"I have not figured it out," replied the politician, "but they say it will knock at least forty saloons in the head, leaving about fifty saloons in Kingston."

"Then again," continued the politician, "it is questionable whether there are fifty saloon proprietors who will be willing to pay the increased license fee."

"Will it affect hotels?" asked the friend.

"The bill provides that a hotel in order to maintain a bar must have twenty rooms instead of ten rooms as in the past," explained the politician.

"How about this Hill-Wheeler bill?" asked the friend.

"That gives Kingston the right to vote on whether the city shall be wet or dry if it is so desired," replied the politician.

"In what way?" asked the friend.

"In case the dry element want the proposition put to a vote," said the politician, "they have to secure about 1,250 signatures to a petition calling for a special election next spring to vote on the question."

"But suppose they don't get that number of signatures?" said the friend.

"Then they can't vote on the proposition," replied the politician.

"Getting back to the Brown bill," said the friend, "who is the mayor going to appoint as the commission?"

"That is a question that the saloon men are very anxious to know as well as other people," replied the politician with a grin, "but it is hardly likely they will be known until the mayor gets ready to announce their names."

"How would you like the job?" asked the friend.

"I would rather be clerk of the commission than a member of it," replied the politician.

"Why?" asked the friend.

"It is likely that the clerk will be paid," explained the politician with a smile, "but the members of the commission will work free gratis."

"I see," commented the friend.

"There must be money in the boat building business," said the politician changing the subject.

"How is that?" queried the friend.

"They tell me that there was a man here," explained the politician "looking for boat builders to work and he was willing to offer them from $5 to $8 a day wages."

"Where is he now?" asked the friend reaching for his lid.

"The job was at Seattle, Washington," explained the politician.

"Oh," explained the friend relaxing his clutch on his hat.

"And he was willing to pay their fare out to Washington," continued the politician "but not back again."

"Did he get anybody from here to go?" asked the friend. "I did not hear," replied the politician.

"Have you set out your tomato plants yet?" asked the friend following a pause.

"No," replied the politician "I was going to, but the weather reports promised snow, and I was afraid to take a chance."

"Do you think we will get any snow?" queried the friend.

"As I don't lay claim to being a weather prophet," replied the politician, "I can't say, but I hope not."

"So do I," said the friend feelingly.

"You must be keeping your fires going yet," commented the politician noting his friend's tone of voice.

"I am," said the friend.

"Speaking of fires," said the politician reminds me that I wish my winter coal was laid in."

"I got ahead of you there," returned the friend "for mine is all in the cellar."

"You always was a lucky guy," replied the politician.

WEED YOUR GARDEN.

How Weeds Work to Destroy Useful Garden Crops.

Every weed is an enemy of the "soldiers of the commissary," who are making gardens.

All these troublesome vagrant plants, that gain footholds in the garden, foster upon the plant food and water which should be available to build up food plants.

They stunt some vegetables by stealing their sustenance and crowd out and shade others.

From morning until night weeds that are allowed to grow in a garden work steadily against the interests of the gardener; and the longer they are left undisturbed the greater becomes their capacity for harm.

If you have not begun to free your garden crops of the weed enemies that are probably attacking them now, you should lose no time in beginning your campaign. It is a warfare that you will have to wage, off and on, all season, but if you bring superior force into play early you will be able to confine the enemy to a straggling guerrilla offensive that will cause little destruction.

In this warfare the hoe is your heavy artillery and is to be depended upon chiefly for action in the open. Weeds are the most effective weapons for close action. Neither tool, however, will wholly do away with the necessity for a hand-to-hand struggle to uproot the persistent weeds that grow closely about the stems of the smaller plants you wish to protect, and which yield only when they are pulled bodily up by the thumb and finger.

The fight on weeds should begin as soon as it is possible to distinguish easily between them and the garden plants. It is even possible to do much effective work in killing weeds between the rows before the young vegetables make their appearance, provided the exact location of the planted seeds is marked.

The gardener should choose a bright, sunny day for weeding. At such a time even weeds which are only partially severed from their roots will have little chance of surviving the withering rays of the sun. If weeding operations are conducted on a cloudy or damp day, however, many of the weeds that are incompletely severed will take fresh growth.

Weeding does more than free the garden of undesirable plants. The digging incidental to removing the weeds also serves as a cultivation. As soon as the weeds have been dug up the roughened ground should be carefully smoothed with a rake. This will incorporate air in the soil, form a dust mulch which will aid in preventing the loss of moisture through evaporation, and will tend to bring to the surface and expose to the sun weed roots and sprouting weed seeds which otherwise might produce plants.

Last of the Reformation Lectures.

On Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, the Reformation series of lectures will be concluded by Dr. Frank Wolford of Hardwick Theological Seminary, who will speak on "The Reformation and the Public Schools." Dr. Wolford is an authority on this subject and should bring up interesting facts concerning the most intimate relation of our public schools to the Reformation. It is a well known fact that the public school took its rise from the Reformation but the details and principles which underlie this relationship are not so well known to most of us. It is Dr. Wolford's desire to present most clearly the fundamental relation. Every one who is especially interested in the history of public schools and public education should not miss to hear this lecture. Special music at this last meeting under the direction of Miss Los Kamp.

The KITCHEN CABINET

She knows a dozen languages And that is much too many— She talks in every one of them And doesn't think in any.

GOOD COMPANY DISHES.

Chop all together rather coarsely two large stalks of celery, two green peppers, and one onion, fry slowly in two tablespoonsful of butter until tender. Serve with steak.

Tuna Fish Omelet—Prepare half a dozen eggs, beating the yolks and whites separately and adding a tablespoonful of cold water for each egg, season with a teaspoonful of salt, a fourth of a teaspoonful of pepper and three-fourths of a cupful of tuna fish minced fine. Fold the fish into the whites and proceed as in the making of a plain omelet.

Chicken and Mushroom Pie.—Butter a baking dish and put a layer of chicken meat in the bottom, cover with mushrooms which should be sliced as well as the chicken, then add a few potato balls, season and add a layer of hard cooked eggs chopped, sprinkle with minced parsley and cover with a white sauce. Then after all the ingredients are used in layers, cover with small rich biscuit and bake. Use four cupfuls of diced chicken, one pint of mushrooms, one and a half pints of potatoes, six eggs, one and a half tablespoonfuls of minced parsley, a quart of thin white sauce, bake about 30 minutes. This will serve eight people.

Club Salad—Allow two or three leaves of lettuce for each salad, one and one-half cupfuls of shredded chicken (cold, cooked), twelve slices of bacon cooked and diced, three tomatoes, mayonnaise and toast points with parsley for the garnishing. Arrange the lettuce on each a slice or two of tomato, then the fried bacon on these and a spoonful of mayonnaise and on top the chicken, more mayonnaise and a sprig of parsley. Garnish with six tiny toast points for each salad, placing them spoke-fashion on the plates.

Pimento Cheese.—Drain a small can of pimentos from the oil, chop fine, add a tablespoonful of onion juice and a tablespoonful of minced pickles and a half-pound of grated cheese. Mix well, add salt and red pepper and serve with crackers or as a sandwich filling.

PRaise Y. M. C. A. WORK AMONG BOYS

Father and Son Dinner Friday Night
Hears Views of Three Speakers on
Subject of Juvenile Training—
Mayor Canfield Presides as Toastmaster.

A most successful occasion was the annual gathering of Fathers and Sons at the Y. M. C. A. Friday evening, a delicious dinner being served by Mrs. Woolheater and in the talks which followed, warm praise was bestowed upon the local institution and its great possibilities for service to boys of this city and vicinity. Mayor Palmer Canfield, Jr., presided.

Attorney A. D. Van Buren, speaking on "What a Father Owe His Boy," made a plea for a greater exhibition of paternal interest, citing the companionship that usually marks the relation of father to son in the country as a desirable example for city folk to follow. Too often, the speaker held, the average city father left the discharge of many of his obligations to the church and the Y. M. C. A., whereas he should cooperate with both and endeavor to lead his son along right lines through companionship and expression of interest in juvenile activities.

The Rev. Father Lange, of the Church of the Holy Cross, spoke on "Concentration of Boys' Activities," saying that in all the countries engaged in war, and in most of the neutrals, too, there had been a great increase in so-called juvenile delinquency, caused to some degree by the excitement prevailing everywhere. Kingston, he said, like any other city its size should prepare itself as early as possible to take care of this problem. The only way to do this, in the speaker's opinion, was to make it possible for the boys to spend their spare time as profitable as could be.

Kingston was fortunate, he declared, in having right in its center a modern, up to date Y. M. C. A., whose boys' department was the logical and natural place for the city to concentrate all its work for the boys. To take efficient care of the boy in his outside activities was just as much a specialty that had to be studied and learned as teaching him in the schools. The boys' department of the Y. M. C. A. was an old tried institution that had stood the test of years.

The speaker closed with urging everyone to present to work for the boys' department. There were many boys in Kingston who needed the department more than those already in it, but whose circumstances were not so as to make it possible for them. In no other way could charitable citizens, who had the welfare of the boys in their hearts, get so much value for their money as in giving to less fortunate boys memberships in the boys' department.

The Rev. J. I. Blair Larned, rector of St. John's Episcopal Church, spoke on the "Possibilities of Boys," and cited as examples the lives of Washington and Lincoln. He emphasized the need for companionship, a development of mutual interest between father and son, as a most useful work in the training of boys to become good men.

KINGSTON, N. Y., MAY 26, 1917.

Agreement by the Senate and House confers upon a new censorship section of the espionage bill contributes no more reassurance to the country as to the continuance of a free press than did the section recently rejected. The difficulty with this censorship plan lies in a single phrase penalizing the publication of information, "which is or may be useful to the enemy," a phrase that in these or similar words has appeared in all of the proposed drafts. Under such authority the president's appointee could make such rules as he saw fit, even barring such information as that given by Major-General Goethals to steel men on the uselessness of wooden ships as an item of information useful to the enemy. Criticism of certain departmental heads or policies is not to be restricted, the projectors of this new section assert; nevertheless, the tremendous power that is purposed to be placed in the hand of one man to make rules and interpret published facts as best suits him is contrary to our institutions of Government. There are many problems now under discussion at Washington that warrant far more attention than this press censorship provision. The people are entitled to know how their billions are to be expended and the main essentials of the conduct of war preparations, regardless of the efforts of certain bureaucrats to erect a barrier against possible press exposure of their own incompetence.

The effectiveness of voluntary press censorship is notably illustrated by the sudden dropping out of sight of the widely heralded French commission and the astonishing announcement some days later that Joffre and Viviani had safely arrived in Paris. Nevertheless, President Wilson contends that, while the great majority of newspapers can be trusted to observe a patriotic reticence, "there are some persons in a position to do mischief in this field who can not be relied upon and whose interests or desires will lead to actions on their part highly dangerous to the nation in the midst of war," and that therefore he considers it imperative that powers of press censorship should be granted. Fairly on the heels of this utterance comes the truly startling announcement of Rear Admiral Sims in London to the effect that four days before the American flotilla of destroyers arrived abroad, Berlin was in possession of the news that it had sailed and the port of its destination. The destroyers put into port at Queenstown on May 16 and, until the announcement of their arrival, no one outside of official circles in Washington knew of the Administration's determination to dispatch warcraft to European waters. This evidence of the efficiency of the German spy system in this country is a revelation. It shows unmistakably that the need for censorship is not over the press but rather within the inner chambers of the departments of Government at Washington. The press has shown that it can be trusted but members of the crew of the Ship of State itself are under suspicion with this latest evidence of a "leak."

The new disclosures in regard to German plans of conquest merely give further particulars in connection with facts already known. The forty-year preparations for war were not made for nothing. The victory over France in 1871 with the seizure of territory and the exaction of a heavy indemnity merely whetted an appetite which grew continually until the opportunity for further conquest came in 1914. The "Pan-German" plans, known to be as old as 1898, developed further in 1905, and more fully formulated in 1911, included not only the annexation of Belgium, Holland, Luxembourg, Switzerland, northern France and Western Russia, but complete German sway from "Hamburg to the Persian Gulf," with the Balkan States and Turkey under subjection and the Mediterranean under German control. There were also dreams of a German South America, in parts of which German colonization has been extensive. As this meant defiance of the Monroe doctrine, an eventual clash with the United States, after Europe had been subdued, was inevitably involved. Even after the great plans had miscarried, owing to the heroic resistance of the French army and the employment of British money and ships, the Kaiser's agents sought to ally Mexico and Japan against the United States, this country being regarded as an inevitable future enemy. That German ambition and ruthlessness must be checked and chastened in the interest of our own safety as well as of the peace of Europe and the world must now be evident even to unobservant and unreflecting minds.

She Wanted a Pipe.

She entered a down town cigar store and the clerk left a regular customer to wait on her.

"I want to get a birthday present for my brother," she began.

"Yes, ma'am," agreed the clerk. "A box of nice cigars, now?"

"No, indeed!" she interrupted, firmly. "I've read enough funny papers about the kind of cigars a woman buys. No, I want to buy him a pipe."

"Certainly. What kind of a pipe would you like to see?"

"One suited to a man of about 42—though he doesn't look as old as that—five feet and nine inches tall, rather stout, and with dark hair and mustache."—Brooklyn Eagle.

Where to Hang It.

A rising young artist was showing a lady through his studio.

"This picture," he said, stopping before one of his early efforts, "is one I painted to keep the wolf from the door."

"Indeed!" replied the woman. "Then why don't you hang it on the knob where the wolf can see it?"—British Weekly.

His Turn Again.

Trouble had come to a Washington nursery and when the mother entered it was to find Charlie in tears.

"Why are you crying?" she asked.

"Because Louis slapped me."

"But why didn't you slap him back?" asked mother, who evidently believed in a policy of retaliation.

"Because then it would only be his turn again."—New York Times.

SPRAYING OF GRAPES.

Insect Enemies and Diseases May Easily be Controlled.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Washington, D. C., May 26.—Grape insect enemies and diseases may be controlled and a good crop of the berries practically assured if a careful spraying schedule is carried out, says A. L. Quaintance, of the bureau of entomology, and C. L. Shear, of the bureau of plant industry, of the United States department of agriculture. Owners of small orchards and vineyards do not sufficiently appreciate the fact, the specialists point out, that by the expenditure of a little time and money a large proportion of the fruit may be saved, repaying many times the trouble involved in its protection.

The principal insect enemies of the grape are the grape berry moth, the grape root worm, the rose chafer, the grape leaf folder and the eight-spotted forester, all of which are eating insects; and the grape leaf hopper, and the brown grape aphid, sucking insects. The principal diseases which attack grapes are black rot, downy mildew, powdery mildew and anthracnose.

The use of combination spray solutions containing chemicals which act as insecticides or fungicides is advocated by the specialists. The following spray schedule is recommended:

Spray Schedule.

First application—About a week before the blossoms open or when the shoots are 12 to 18 inches long, spray with Bordeaux mixture, 4-3-50, for fungus diseases, adding 2 to 3 pounds of arsenate of lead paste, or one-half that quantity of the powdered form, for flea-beetle, rose chafer, etc.

Second application—Just after the blossoms fall, spray with the same materials as in the first application for the same fungus diseases and insects and for the grape berry moth, grape leaf folder, and adults of the grape rootworm.

Third application—About two weeks later use Bordeaux mixture 4-3-50, arsenate of lead paste 2 to 3 pounds, 40 per cent nicotine sulphate, 1 part to 1,500 parts of the spray mixture, for fungus diseases, berry moth, light spotted forester, grape leaf folder, brown grape aphid, grape rootworm and grape leaf hopper. To destroy the leaf hopper, direct the spray against the lower surface of the leaves. To control the berry moth thoroughly coat the grape bunches with the spray.

Fourth application—About 10 days later, or when the fruit is nearly grown, if black rot or mildew are still appearing, spray with neutral copper acetate or verdigris at the rate of 1 pound to 50 gallons of water.

LIBERTY LOAN PLAN TO NEGOTIATE LIBERTY BONDS AT $102

The bugle call has sounded—calling every man, woman and child to the colors.

Just because you are not of conscription age—you are NOT exempt.

The quicker you go to your banker or bond house and buy Liberty Bonds, the quicker shall we WIN the war.

If you CANNOT go to the trenches—you CAN strike a telling blow against brutal despotism.

Money is ammunition—don't prolong the suffering and delay the outcome by neglect to lend the Government YOUR ammunition-dollars.

The Kaiser does NOT want you to buy Liberty Bonds—he wants you to cripple the United States and its Allies by failure to buy them.

Every one who CAN, and does NOT, is handicapping Uncle Sam in his righteous fight.

Make YOUR break with the Kaiser today—go to your banker or bond house and sign your name to a Liberty Bond purchase.

Women—here is a great opportunity for you.

Serve humanity, serve your country and hasten relief by buying Liberty Bonds. Your efforts count as much as any man's in this way.

Act now and avoid the memory that you failed in the hour of test!

This means YOU!

Our Government must borrow $2,000,000,000 from its citizens immediately—

And get it "with the least possible disturbance to the business fabric of the country"—

To help, we are operating this plan, and suggest all other manufacturers and merchants adopt it.

It is simplicity itself—

WE WILL ACCEPT LIBERTY BONDS ON THE BASIS OF $102, FOR ENTIRE OR PARTIAL PAYMENT ON COLE MOTOR CARS.

This plan accomplishes these three very necessary things for the success of the Liberty Bond issue:

1. It makes it easier for the Government to sell the Liberty Bonds.
2. It enables the purchaser of the Liberty Bonds to advantageously USE them in securing the necessities and comforts of life.
3. It fortifies, expands and develops American business.

For example—you want a seven-passenger Cole touring car, price $1,795 at the factory, Indianapolis.

If you possess seventeen $100 and one $50 Liberty Bonds, we will give you $1,785 in merchandise for them. You only pay us the difference of $10 cash, and get the car.

Or, if you have a second-hand car, let us say worth $775, our dealer will take the car and ten $100 Liberty Bonds and give you a new $1,795 Cole seven-passenger touring car.

In fact, all the various types of purchases and trades are included in this plan. The only difference being you USE your Liberty Bonds just as you would cash.

You can make partial payment in Liberty Bonds for a Cole car, but it is to YOUR ADVANTAGE to invest the entire Cole list price in Liberty Bonds FIRST, then buy your Cole car with the bonds.

No doubt you intend buying these bonds—probably have done so already.

The Cole plan helps you to do your bit—a great big bit too—for your Government and NOT inconvenience yourself. Instead, you actually SAVE money by buying the bonds and USING them.

If at a later date you want to redeem the bonds with which your purchased a Cole car we will return them to you.

Secretary of Treasury William G. McAdoo is touring the country, making public appeals.

Help him in this crisis!

If he could talk to you personally you would not hesitate—because there is not a shadow of a reason why you should not buy Liberty Bonds.

This money will be spent by our Government in our own country for the purchase of materials and supplies required for the proper conduct of the war.

You do not assume a single risk in buying Liberty Bonds—but you DO help AVOID innumerable risks and dangers to yourself and others.

There never was a time when you could put YOUR money to better use.

And now the Cole Liberty Loan Plan makes it simpler and easier for you to do your DUTY.

Even though the bonds have not yet been issued, you can negotiate the Cole Liberty Loan Plan at once, as follows:

Go to your banker, give him your order for the number of bonds you want and he will give you a receipt. Bring this receipt to us—it is as good as cash and we will accept it on the basis of $102 as whole or partial payment on a Cole car.

This Cole Liberty Loan Plan is heartily endorsed by New York Bankers, both as a practical advantage, and a worthy undertaking.

Enough of flag waving and mere talk. Let us get down to business.

We suggest that all motor car manufacturers adopt this Cole plan.

We suggest that all merchants, no matter what the nature of their business, adopt it.

We suggest that all bankers recommend this Cole Liberty Plan to business men in their communities—large and small.

But, above all, our Government needs action—TODAY.

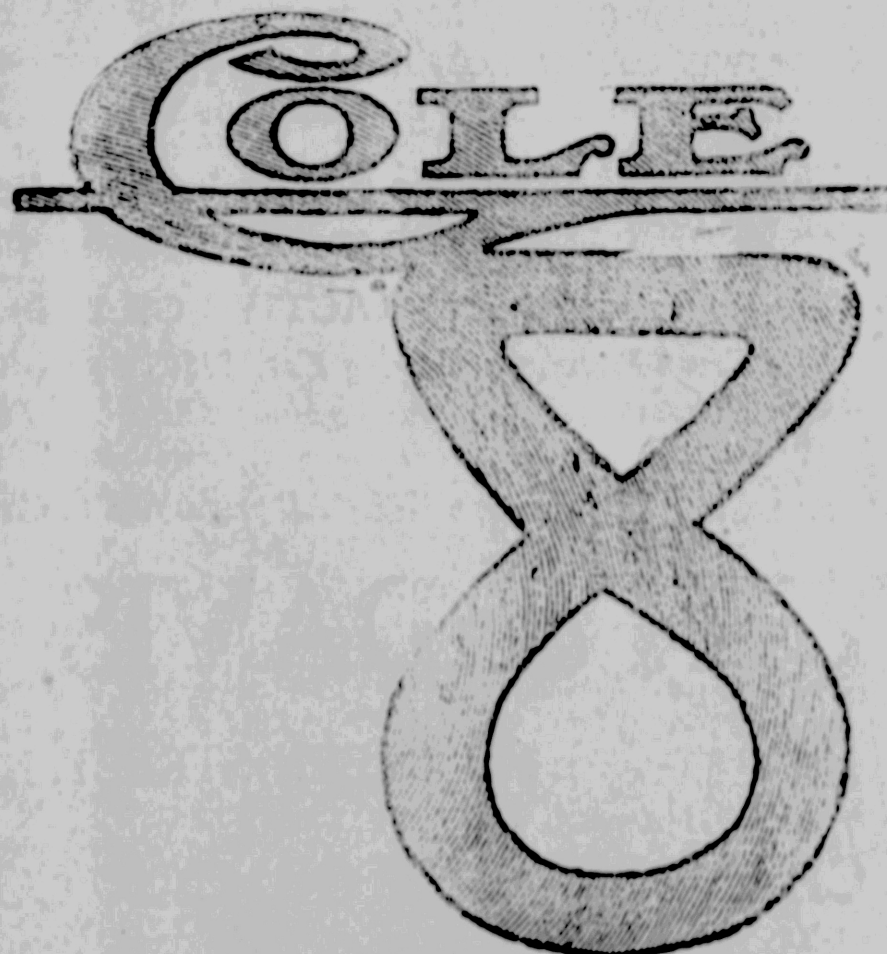

Your investment in Liberty Bonds is worth more than a flag in your button hole!

Go to the nearest Cole dealer at once and get full information.

WORK AMONG BOYS

Father and Son Dinner Friday Night
Hear Views of Three Speakers on
Subject of Juvenile Training—
master.

A most successful occasion was the annual gathering of Fathers and Sons at the Y. M. C. A. Friday evening, a delicious dinner being served by Mrs. Woolheater and in the talks which followed, warm praise was bestowed upon the local institution and its great possibilities for service to boys of this city and vicinity. Mayor Palmer Canfield, Jr., presided.

Attorney A. D. Van Buren, speaking on "What a Father Owe His Boy," made a plea for a greater exhibition of paternal interest, urging the companionship that usually marks the relation of father to son in the country as a desirable example for city folk to follow. Too often the speaker held, the average city father left the discharge of many of his obligations to the church and the Y. M. C. A., whereas he should cooperate with both and endeavor to lead his son along right lines through companionship and expression of interest in juvenile activities.

The Rev. Father Lange, of the Church of the Holy Cross, spoke on "Concentration of Boys' Activities," saying that in all the countries engaged in war, and in most of the neutrals, too, there had been a great increase in so-called juvenile delinquency, caused to some degree by the excitement prevailing everywhere. Kingston, he said, like any other city its size should prepare itself as early as possible to take care of this problem. The only way to do this, in the speaker's opinion, was to make it possible for the boys to spend their spare time as profitably as could be.

Kingston was fortunate, he declared, in having right in its center a modern up-to-date Y. M. C. A., whose boys' department was the logical and natural place for the city to concentrate all its work for the boys. To take efficient care of the boy in his outside activities was just as much a specialty that had to be studied and learned as teaching him in the schools. The boys' department of the Y. M. C. A. was an old tried institution that had stood the test of years.

The speaker closed with urging everyone present to work for the boys' department. There were many boys in Kingston who needed the department more than those already in it, but whose circumstances were not so as to make it possible for them. In no other way could charitable citizens, who had the welfare of the boys in their hearts, get so much value for their money as in giving to less fortunate boys' memberships in the boys' department.

The Rev. J. I. Blair Larned, rector of St. John's Episcopal Church, spoke on the "Possibilities of Boys," and cited as examples the lives of Washington and Lincoln. He emphasized the need for companionship, a development of mutual interest between father and son, as a most useful work in the training of boys to become good men.

Our grandmothers and our great-grandmothers plucked their own feathers for pillows. But now, in the present day pillow industry, great quantities of second-hand feathers are used.

The unclean condition of these old feathers and the decayed animal matter in the quills makes them unsanitary and unhealthy. But not so with

Robinson-Rodgers Pillows

They are guaranteed to contain only new feathers. And what is more, are completely sterilized to destroy even the animal matter in the quills.

We carry Robinson-Rodgers Pillows in all standard sizes and a large variety of attractively designed, featherproof ticks.

Chandler Price Must Advance $200 June 30th

The price of the Chandler Six becomes $1595 on the first day of July. The present model, identically the same car, will be continued after that date.

Until that date the price remains $1395

It has always been a basic part of Chandler policy
to keep the Chandler price low

We have kept it low. Men considered the original Chandler price of $1785 established four years ago an impossible price. Later when the Chandler Company reduced that price to $1595 the trade thought we were courting disaster. Further reductions came as a positive shock to the industry.

Meanwhile the Chandler Company prospered and

Chandler business grew to front rank proportions. The Chandler car was never cheapened, but, rather, improved and refined from season to season until the whole motor car purchasing public has come to recognize the Chandler car as a car of surpassing values.

Our whole purpose has been to build the best light-weight Six and sell it at the lowest possible price.

We have sold the Chandler car for hundreds of dollars
less than cars of similar quality

We have built into the Chandler car, as fundamental features of construction and equipment, the most important features which are characteristic of the highest priced cars of all types—features which are not found in other medium-priced Sixes, or found, at best, to very slight degree.

Now, however, the Chandler price must be advanced

It must be materially advanced to cover greatly increased costs which have arisen this Spring by reason of unprecedented conditions in the material supply and labor markets and in problems of transportation.

Production costs throughout the past three months have advanced steadily and in long strides. This is a condition which we cannot control. It is a condition which we must meet.

So the Chandler price must be advanced. In making this advance we do not depart from our firmly established policy of keeping the price just as low as it can be kept and still provide reasonable manufacturing profit.

At $1595 the Chandler car will still be under-priced

It will be distinctly under-priced, as compared to other cars which some may consider of similar quality. By test of any conceivable comparison this statement is a provable fact.

Now you can buy this great Six at $1395, f. o. b. Cleveland.

CARNIVAL PRIZES HAVE BEEN AWARDED

The diamond ring contest and the bicycle contest in the Odd Fellows' carnival which is being held at the athletic field, came to a close Friday evening at 10 o'clock when the judges announced the contest closed and all voting stopped. Sheriff Edgar T. Shultis, chairman of the board of judges, and his assistants began immediately to count the votes and at the close announced Miss Ethel Van Wagenen winner of the diamond ring and Robert Hardwick winner of the bicycle.

An unusually large number of people attended the shows last evening and in spite of the cool weather the shows were crowded all evening. Every show on the grounds is clean and up to date. Not one show under the Krause management is of such a nature as to make one hesitate about entering. The carnival will come to a close this evening when the record crowd of the entire week will be present. With warmer weather today the show men are looking for a big attendance on the closing afternoon and night.

The prizes will be awarded to the grounds this evening at 8 o'clock. Winners of the prizes are:
Ethel Van Wagenen, diamond ring, 17.234
Helen Brice, diamond laval-

Grass Clippings for Poultry.

Washington, May 26.—Grass clippings are an excellent green feed for chickens. The back yard poultry flock of a family often lacks sufficient green feed, with a consequent reduction of egg and meat production. With the easy availability of lawn clippings the city poultryman can always have green feed through the summer for his chickens. The flock can be fed daily as much of the green clippings as they will eat. If any continued bowel trouble shows, the amount should be reduced. The remainder of the clippings can be allowed to dry and fed moistened during the time between lawn cuttings.

Amounts in excess can be dried for winter use. Dried grass clippings are a good green feed for winter. They can be dried and stored in sacks. These dried clippings, moistened and fed to the flock, are a very fair substitute for the succulent green feeds of summer.

Expert Advice For the Automobile Owner

Queries and Replies Covering Matters of Importance to the Man Who Runs a Car

What is the difference in admitting air between the carburetor and cylinder or by increasing the auxiliary air intake on the carburetor, and why does the former method give such quick acceleration?

Theoretically the air and gas in the carburetor are compactly mixed into the proper explosive mixture. Any more air would mean too fine a mixture with consequent poor firing. When air is admitted above the carburetor it rushes into the cylinder without suspending itself thoroughly in the gas and gives oxygen to assist the combustion of the already mixed gas.

Is there any benefit derived from putting oil in gasoline? Does it give any more mileage?

Very little, if any. The present day gasoline is hard enough to vaporize as it is.

How does a two cycle, direct air cooled engine compare in efficiency with a water cooled, poppet valve engine?

Theoretically a two cycle motor or an air cooled motor, either one, will produce higher efficiency than the standard type, so that the combination of the two features in one engine may be considered a theoretical ideal. In practice the results attained have never measured up to the promises of such engines from an abstract standpoint. This is to be attributed to the lack of development that this type has undergone. However, motors of this type are reputed as highly satisfactory in the hands of users.

I have been having brake trouble due to too small brake drums. The drums are only 12 1/2 by 2 inches and are much too small for a 3,000 pound car. I want to equip it with 16 by 2 or 2 1/2 brakes if it is possible to obtain a pair of this size drums bored for two inch hubs. I can do the fitting and think I can work over the old brake connections without much expense. What do you think of this plan?

It would be entirely practical to do this, although we do not know where you could get such a set of drums already made. It is probable that you would have to have them made to your order. Remember that you do not want to get them so large that they will interfere with the road clearance of the car.

Will you please tell me how to scrape and take up the wear on the crank shaft and connecting rod bearings of my car?

Unless you have to put in new bearings it is not necessary to scrape them. A bearing that has been run for some time has a smooth surface and does not need this treatment. However, new bearings must be scraped with a cool known as a scraper and which any motorcar supply store should be able to furnish you. The process is one of smoothing the surface as much as possible. It is a matter of common sense and skill, and we do not advise an inexperienced person to do it.

However, to take up the wear in the bearings you have—and this is all that should be necessary if they have not been burned out or damaged in some way—it is necessary only to take out shims and then tighten up the caps again to remove any lost motion. This applies to the connecting rod bearings as well as the main bearings. Try taking out one shim from each side of the cap first. Then see if this is not enough to permit of tightening up the cap so as to remove the play. If one shim from each side will not do it, try taking two, etc. You must be careful not to tighten the bearings so that they bind. Do not try to turn the heads off the bolts in doing it, but set them up with reasonable snugness.

Are aluminum pistons a success? What changes would I have to make other than changing pistons? How about the connecting rods, etc.?

Aluminum pistons have been adopted by many of the leading automobile makers after long test. The aluminum pistons can be used satisfactorily with the regular rods in the engine, if that is what you mean.

Will you please give me a formula for mixing sulphuric acid, nitric acid and water for cleaning brass parts on a car?

The best mixture of sulphuric acid and nitric acid for cleaning brass parts uses 50 per cent of each solution without any water. For regular cleaning purposes this should be kept in a five gallon jar with an earthenware cover to prevent the fumes cooling off. It is best to have the jar seated in a wood tray and perhaps water flowing through the wood tray to dilute the acid in the event that the jar should break. When dipping brass articles into this bath the utmost care must be taken not to inhale the fumes, as they are almost fatal to a person breathing them, and every care must be exercised in handling the solution. It is not a bad plan to put a half handful of table salt in a four gallon mixture. In using a cleaning dip of this nature which will cut off spots of nickel, etc., be sure that the parts to be dipped are perfectly dry. They should be cleaned in gasoline and entirely free from water. If this is not the case a pitting action will take place.

Loyalty.
The little girl looked in dazed silence at Niagara falls; and then, in answer to her mother's question, "Well, what do you think of it, dear?" answered with a disdainful shrug of her shoulders: "Oh, our brook could do that, if it had a chance."—Harpers Magazine.

I have a car which I wish to convert into a speedster. Can you tell me what changes are necessary to secure the most speed out of it?

The weight distribution over the front and rear wheels should be made as nearly equal as possible, so that the car will hold the track and take the turns without upsetting. This rule is followed out in designing cars for racing. The center of gravity is made as low as possible to accomplish the same end. The motor should be balanced by making the reciprocating parts as nearly equal as possible in weight. The crankshaft must be perfectly balanced, the connecting rods to weigh the same. In fact, there must not be more work thrust upon one cylinder than upon another. By reducing the body weight the car will give greater speed. The new body should be such that wind resistance is reduced considerably, for this is one great factor in speed. By reducing the gear ratio still greater speed may be obtained, but the life of the car would be short with a gear ratio of less than three and one-half to one.

The speed indicating dial of my speedometer oscillates back and forth. Can you tell me how to remedy this?

Try tightening the swivel joint on the end of the flexible shaft near the gear. Also strap the shaft to the radius rod of the car, thus preventing it from swinging. If this does not stop your trouble the inside parts of the speedometer must be worn out and will have to be renewed.

What causes a motor to have one cylinder slightly louder than the other three? The motor runs well except in this regard and seems to be slightly lame when pulling heavy at slow motor speed, enough to cause quite a little vibration at times. When the motor is running one can notice that one of the exhausts is slightly louder than the balance and of a sharper sound. This is doing no harm other than being annoying. It is a four and one-fourth by four and one-half inch motor of the valve in the head type. The compression is good in all cylinders and the valves are all right. The exhaust has been always this way. I have not timed the valves with the flywheel, as it has never been changed, and the cam shaft is integral with the cams. I am of the impression that the cam shaft is at fault, as it appears that one valve is slightly out of time.

It is evident that the exhaust valve of this cylinder opens earlier than the rest, so that the gas is allowed to escape when it is at higher pressure than the others. This may be caused, as you suspect, by faulty cutting of the cams, but the likelihood is very small, as integral cam shafts seldom vary, being cut on automatic or semi-automatic machines and to conform to fits and to pass inspections within very narrow limits. It is more likely that the length of the valve rods is at fault. If these are of the adjustable type, shorten up on the offending rod slightly. This will give a little more play than was had formerly, with the result that the valve will open a little later. It is possible also that the other valves have too much play in their action, so that they open too late. This would mean that the cylinder that sounded the loudest was the only one whose valves were working properly. Which of these is the case may be determined by running the motor on this cylinder alone, suddenly switching to another and running that one alone. If it runs faster on the second the fault is with the first cylinder. There can be little harm in such a condition except as to cam wear. It is likely that the wear is more severe where the play is not so great.

I have a four cylinder, thirty-five horsepower car which has suddenly developed a peculiar missing. It misses on cylinders two and three at all speeds and hits as well as ever on cylinders one and four. There is no spark at two and three whatever, while one and four have a strong spark. The wires and plugs are in good condition. Can you tell me a remedy for this trouble?

There are a number of causes besides defective wiring and plugs that could cause two cylinders of a motor to miss and two to fire regularly. The magnets itself must be in proper order or you would not get a spark on cylinders one and four. Look at your distributor and see that the contacts are in good order. It is probable that the distributor brush is worn so that it only contacts on two of the four points. These points may also have become grounded to the metal parts of the distributor. Dirty contacts are frequently the cause of misfiring. Do not be too certain, however, that the plugs are not defective. Try other plugs that are known to be in good condition and see if they will not spark. See that your sparking points are not too wide. Look carefully to your high tension wiring. See that the insulation is intact and that the connections are tight.

Would there be any advantage in having a concave topped piston? Would it give more force on the explosion stroke? Theoretically the more nearly spherical the combustion chamber is the greater the efficiency of the engine; hence a concave head is a step in the right direction.

Work and Play.
It has been said that we never really know persons, even although we work with them, until we have played with them. This is true, because work may be performed according to somebody else's ideas, but our play life expresses our own ideals in regard to amusement and enjoyment.

Judge Your Car by What You Cannot See

Make a list of requirements such as beauty, comfort, convenience, horsepower and the like.

Overland has won the verdict of over 400,000 owners after a comparison of such items.

If this is not enough to convince you, then judge your Overland by what you cannot see.

You cannot see the accuracy, the minute care, nor the patient perfecting that are practiced in Willys-Overland manufacturing methods.

But you may know that these things are definite Willys-Overland accomplishments—else it would never have been possible for us to market those 400,000 cars.

You cannot see the quality in the materials—the scientific reasons for designs, nor the proven superiority of every part and principle.

These things, and the millions in economies effected by Willys-Overland's vast production, are vital factors in your car although not visible to the layman's eye. But they are visible to the layman's reason—they are seen in continued consistent performance—and they are shown convincingly in the price that gives you a better car for less money.

The Big Four—the car that made Overland—exemplifies this excess value. The experience accumulated in the building of over 300,000 similar four-cylinder Overlands has contributed directly to the development and perfecting of this model.

Test its superior mechanical excellence and remarkable easy riding qualities—come in and judge for yourself its incomparable beauty of design.

Wonderful Record Made by Maxwell Car

Two Maxwell cars, starting from Stuyvesant Garage covered an area of 30 9-10 and 31 2-10 miles respectively, to one gallon of gasoline attached to the carburetor of the cars by a one gallon tested tank suspended from the side of the car fastened to the windshield. The cars were standard cars, loaned by owners for this event and were not cars prepared for any great mileage. The one car carrying three passengers which covered 31 2-10 miles had been in service for nine months and during the winter the car was subject to some very hard service.

Although these cars were driven part way through the rain the mileage was considered wonderful and far surpassed our expectations.

"To Get Into a Scrape."
The expression "to get into a scrape" referred at one time to any one who fell into a deer-run in the forest. When deer run wild in the forest they frequently cut deep gullies among the trees, due to their constant running backward and forward over the same ground. The cuts so made in the forest were known as "deer scrapes," and it sometimes happened that a woodsman fell into them to his great danger.

Nursing Sickly Plants.
Sickly plants, like sickly people, cannot stand extremes. Sickly pot plants may often be more quickly brought back to health by watering with very warm water only. Low vitality will not be raised through the use of chilly water or less than 110 degrees of temperature.

Go to College

By DONALD CHAMBERLIN

I was sixteen years old and still far from being prepared for college. There was no good school near where I lived,
and I concluded to hunt up a tutor.
Upon inquiry I learned that there was a clergyman in charge of a little church in a neighboring village who was a classical scholar, and to him I applied.I well remember the morning I went to the parsonage for the purpose. It stood in a goodly sized yard, and between two trees to which a hammock was swung was a girl dressed as a child, but it seemed to me that she had outgrown her habiliments. I asked her if the Rev. Mr. Snively was in home, and she said I would find him in his study.I found a bookworm. He knew enough to prepare me for college, but either he had not the faculty of imparting his knowledge or I was a dunce, for I learned very slowly. One day I went to the parsonage for a recitation very poorly prepared, and finding the girl in the hammock she told me that my tutor, her father, had been called away on some parochial duty.
I told her that I was not disappointed, for I did not know my lesson. She asked what I was studying, and when I told her it was Latin she said that perhaps she might help me.She made room for me beside her in the hammock, and, opening my textbook, Vergil, I began to construe, the girl helping me the parts that I was unable to get over.After that I went to my recitations in advance of the appointed hour in order to be tutored by Louise before going to her father. It was not long before she took her place in the hammock regularly in order that she might be ready to give me my coaching when I came. While I was ahead of time at the hammock, I soon came to be behind time at the study, and despite Louise's tutoring I was seldom any better prepared than before I had availed myself of her services.My appearance at Mr. Snively's study growing later and later, he protested, saying that my tardiness interfered with his accomplishing other purposes.
I excused myself by saying that my delay was occasioned by an endeavor to prepare myself for my recitation. I would hereafter either come on time or not at all. If I were not on hand five minutes after the appointed time he was not to expect me.During the week after this arrangement I was on time twice. The other days I was studying in the hammock with Louise. Unfortunately, Louise was teaching me love instead of Latin.
The next week, fearing that Mr. Sniv-ely would give up trying to prepare me for college and I should thereby be deprived of his daughter's love coaching, I braced up and was on hand for five out of six lessons. But at these times I sat in the hammock with Louise after instead of before the lesson.In this way a whole summer passed.
One day when I went to take my lesson Mr. Snively, after much hemming and hawing, told me that I was no nearer to passing my entrance examinations than when I had come to him. The autumn was coming on, and it was already too cold to sit in the hammock with Louise. I told Mr.
Snively that I preferred not to go to college till I was eighteen anyway,
and this would give me another year.
During the winter I would go to the best school I could find, and in the spring I would again put myself under his tuition. He did not think much of this plan, but he did not know that I was studying love instead of Latin, and the hammock would not be again available till the next spring. As for studying with Louise during the winter, there would be no excuse for that,
and since she was regarded by her parents as a child she would not be allowed to receive visits from one of the opposite sex.But Louise was passing through a period when girls develop very rapidly. During the winter we managed to meet occasionally, and when the spring opened I resumed my study of Latin with her father and my study of love with her. I found the latter as easy as the former was difficult.However, I got on better with the Latin the second summer, for I found a literal translation of the Aeneid of Vergil which I was studying, and I astonished my reverend preceptor with the elegance of my translations. He said that I was very weak in giving the construction, but quite strong in turning the Latin text into English.When the second summer of my preparation for college came around Louise and I had both passed the gate of manhood and womanhood, and we began to think of neat building. I found that I had no use for college, but I wanted a home in which to place myself and my mate. We talked the matter over, and both agreed that I would be better fitted for business than a profession, and if I were going into business I was at the proper age to begin. Dr. Snively agreed with me when I told him that I would make a better business man than scholar and commended my decision.All men regret not having received a college education. But one can't have everything, and, while some of those who would have been my classmates are struggling lawyers, doctors or engineers, others are impecunious bachelors without homes. I am prosperous and, having married early, am surrounded with sons and daughters not very far from me in age.No Surprise to Him.Little Jack came home and announced to his mother that William had chicken pox. "But, gee, mam," he added solemnly. "It's no wonder. You jest ought to see the chickens that live in his yard."THE LATEST STYLE CHALMERS
JUST RECEIVED;
Every Inch a Quality CarThis Chalmers of today is a car any man—millionaire or miner—proudly may own. For it not only acts quality, but looks quality.$500 more buys no more quality than you can get in this Chalmers. Possibly more car—yes, but more quality—no.And why should anyone want a heavier car? These are days to be sensible in purchasing. Remember a heavier car costs more to run.It is well, to bear in mind that $500 less places you in the dangerous position of buying a skimpy or "starved" automobile.
To pay $500 less is to postpone the day when you will own a quality car.Just let us punctuate a few remarks about the Chalmers. Take the wheelbase—117 inches. Plenty of size there. Then the 5-inch frame. No weaving of body or frame now in crossing car tracks or turning a corner.
Instead, severe rigidity—so severe that a squeaks, rattles or chassis noises are not audible.Underneath the rear seat a heavy, formidable rear axle. Overhead a Pantasote top that comes close to finality—and with four bows; not three.A tilted windshield with plate glass. A front seat that is only 13½ inches from the floor.
A rear seat that is only 14 inches. Tell that to the women of your home.Better brakes—2 inches larger, if you please.
And when you push down with your right foot you get results.A larger steering wheel, dustproof bearings in the front wheels, all wiring encased in flexible armored tubing so that a short circuit in your ignition, or lighting, or starting is well-nigh impossible.And each lamp now controlled by an individual fuse.Then, too, the automatic lubrication of the engine controlled by the carburetor throttle so that the engine is getting oil directly in proportion to its load.Any car that can do a mile in 38.1 seconds or at the rate of 94½ miles per hour as the Chalmers did on the beach at Jacksonville, Florida, which set a new time for cars of the 230 cubic inch class answers the question of speed even for the worst "fan" on the subject.This time was made on May 4, 1917, by a Chalmers. It was of course stripped for racing purposes.As for flexibility one need look no further.
A car that traveled the highest traffic mileage ever reported in twenty-four hours through the heart of Chicago on high, or a car that webbed its way through Detroit's busy traffic at the rare low speed of 2.9
miles per hour for twenty-four hours without stopping the engine but once is a real performer.

This is just what this Chalmers did.

Come down to our show rooms and view the beauty they have drawn into this car. And then get behind the wheel for a little spin.
You'll want your initials on the door inside of a mile.

LIBERTY LOAN PLAN TO NEGOTIATE LIBERTY BONDS AT $102

The bugle call has sounded—calling every man, woman and child to the colors

Just because you are not of conscription age—you are NOT exempt

The quicker you go to your banker or bond house and buy Liberty Bonds, the quicker shall we WIN the war

If you CANNOT go to the trenches—you CAN strike a telling blow against brutal despotism

Money is ammunition—don't prolong the suffering and delay the outcome by neglect to lend the Government YOUR ammunition dollars

The Kaiser does NOT want you to buy Liberty Bonds—he wants you to cripple the United States and its Allies by failure to buy them

Every one who CAN, and does NOT, is handicapping Uncle Sam in his righteous fight

Make YOUR break with the Kaiser today—go to your banker or bond house and sign your name to a Liberty Bond purchase

Women—here is a great opportunity for you

Serve humanity, serve your country and hasten relief by buying Liberty Bonds Your efforts count as much as any man's in this way

Act now and avoid the memory that you failed in the hour of test!

This means YOU!

Our Government must borrow $2,000,000,000 from its citizens immediately—

And get it with the least possible disturbance to the business fabric of the country—

To help, we are operating this plan, and suggest all other manufacturers and merchants adopt it

It is simplicity itself—

WE WILL ACCEPT LIBERTY BONDS ON THE BASIS OF $102, FOR ENTIRE OR PARTIAL PAYMENT ON COLE MOTOR CARS

This plan accomplishes these three very necessary things for the success of the Liberty Bond issue

1 It makes it easier for the Government to sell the Liberty Bonds

2 It enables the purchaser of the Liberty Bonds to advantageously USE them in securing the necessities and comforts of life

3 It fortifies, expands and develops American business

For example—you want a seven passenger Cole touring car price $1,795 at the factory Indianapolis

If you possess seventeen $100 and one $50 Liberty Bonds, we will give you $1,785 in merchandise for them

You only pay us the difference of $10 cash and get the car

Or, if you have a second hand car let us say worth $775 our dealer will take the car and ten $100 Liberty Bonds and give you a new $1,795 Cole seven passenger touring car

In fact all the various types of purchases and trades are included in this plan The only difference being you USE your Liberty Bonds just as you would cash

You can make partial payment in Liberty Bonds for a Cole car, but it is to YOUR ADVANTAGE to invest the entire Cole list price in Liberty Bonds FIRST, then

No doubt you intend buying these bonds—probably have done so already

The Cole plan helps you to do your bit—a great big bit too—for your Government and NOT inconvenience yourself

Instead you actually SAVE money by buying the bonds and USING them

If at a later date you want to redeem the bonds with which your purchased a Cole car we will return them to you

Secretary of Treasury William G. McAdoo is touring the country making public appeals

Help him in this crisis!

If he could talk to you personally you would not hesitate—because there is not a shadow of a reason why you should not buy Liberty Bonds

This money will be spent by our Government in our own country for the purchase of materials and supplies required for the proper conduct of the war

You do not assume a single risk in buying Liberty Bonds—but you DO help AVOID innumerable risks and dangers to yourself and others

There never was a time when you could put YOUR money to better use

And now the Cole Liberty Loan Plan makes it simpler and easier for you to do your DUTY

Even though the bonds have not yet been issued, you can negotiate the Cole Liberty Loan Plan at once as follows

COMPANY M ASKS FOR 145 MEN IN CAMP AND DEPOT

Eighty Needed at Once to Bring Command Up to War Strength and 65 for Depot Company—New Paltz, Saugerties and Wallkill Organize for Home Defense.

In expressing hearty appreciation of an editorial article in the Freeman of Friday evening relative to the local situation in regard to recruiting, Captain Meagher of Company M, Tenth Regiment, this morning stated some very cogent reasons why the public attention should be directed to the importance of the problem now confronting us here in Kingston. The country needs men and the country here is represented by Company M which expects to be ordered early in the summer into camp and eventually to join the expeditionary force for service somewhere in France.

Speaking of the lack of local recruits, Captain Meagher said: "As mentioned in the Freeman's editorial column, the 'waiting' idea to see what will happen and the desire to let the other fellow do it are two conditions that prevent rapid recruiting in Kingston. This is also true of many sections of the eastern states.

"Twenty-six married men were honorably discharged from Company M and 17 men have enlisted to fill their places. The papers of these latter men are in process of completion so we need about 80 men to recruit to war strength.

"Registration Day will give us the names of available men and the selective draft will bring forth the men, but why wait unless it is to escape a duty and to let some other man do the work that the waiting individual will not do himself. It is true that men in the military service do not lie on a bed of roses. The men with the right spirit who get the proper viewpoint do not mind the hardships but grin and bear it. Every young man with any red corpuscles in his blood has the military instinct. Now is the time to let that instinct grow and develop.

"The advantages to the men who enlist now and receive the early training will be many. Promotion will be given to those who work and earn it. A few reasons that occur to me as to why a man should enlist in Company M are:

"1.—Patriotic duty, that every man owes to his country.

"2.—Local pride—a city is judged by its response in sending forth a war strength company.

"3.—The beneficial training it gives to a young man.

"4.—When the war is over, we will never have a small army again. We will follow the military as a vocation. Now is the time to prepare for that work.

"5.—Men will be well paid, fed and clothed. In case of illness, nurses, doctors and medicine are free.

"6.—The opportunity to see many parts of your country and perhaps foreign places, an education well worth trying for."

This matter of clothing and subsistence in addition to $30 a month pay is a big item and further the captain disencouraged the talk that is heard as to the havoc wrought on the battlefields, citing the fact that the percentage of killed and wounded is not large when the tremendous number of men engaged is considered. Here at home, the casualties of ordinary occupations may be mentioned together with the normal death rate to balance against the casualties in war.

Captain Meagher as chairman of the Home Defense Committee's subcommittee on Defense and Security is greatly encouraged by the spirit manifested in Ulster county.

As to the suggestion that honorably discharged married guardians take hold of the work of organizing a depot company in Kingston, the captain said he thought it a splendid one only that one difficulty presented itself with these men and that was the fear of losing their positions. While many Kingston business men and firms, he said, have been handsome in their treatment of employees in the guard ordered out for service within the past year, there were several instances where men had lost their places through their connection with the guard and such treatment had militated against moves to have the married men take their chances again on being ordered out for guard duty.

It is nearly two months since war has been declared and a fortnight has elapsed since Company M, Tenth Regiment, started to recruit the local command up to war strength of 150 men but the necessary number of recruits has not been forthcoming although the company expects to be ordered into camp about the middle of July. Neither has Kingston a depot company which is necessary to be left in the home station when Company M leaves for camp and field service.

No Depot Company Yet.

Organization of this Depot Company is one of the most important duties attendant upon militia mobilization as it is to this home force that the company must look to fill its ranks when actually in service. There are two classes, A and B, and from the former the recruits will be taken to fill in the guard while Class B, with such members of Class A who may not be required by Company M, will be a part of the militia under the order of the state authorities. Statements have been made recently that a Depot Company has been organized or was being organized, but there is as yet no such organization in existence. It has been stated unofficially that approximately 23 men have signed their intention of signing the oath of enlistment and that the latter part of next week may see a full company of 65 men ready to take the oath. At one time a roster was printed of what purported to be some kind of an organization. But it was not a Depot Company or anything else required by the military law and had no standing whatever; more than that of any social club, although for some reason permitted to meet in the armory.

The Home Defense Units are local forces to preserve law and order in their respective communities and subject to the orders of the sheriff and the peace authorities in the county. They will be uniformed at the expense of the county, if at all, the board of supervisors being authorized to make the necessary appropriations. There will be no Home Defense Company in Kingston as with a Depot Company in existence, the other organization is not necessary.

Wallkill Men Are Ready.

Already the Home Defense organization is proceeding with vigor in villages of Ulster county, the first member of the subcommittee on Defense and Security to report being R. H. Terwilliger of Wallkill. He submitted a list of 25 names of men who had evinced their willingness to serve and said that many more will probably be present at a meeting to be arranged later when Captain Meagher will explain the purposes of these units and their duties.

Eighty Enrolled Members.

New Paltz leads in the organization of a Home Defense force, as will be seen from the following extract from a report by Supervisor Joseph H. Vanderlyn, the New Paltz member of the subcommittee, which states:

"The men in our vicinity have already formed a Home Defense organization. Said organization is now divided according to your instructions, Class 'A' containing those from 18 to 45, and Class 'B' containing those from 16 to 18 and those from 45 to 64.

"The organization has 80 enrolled members, of which about 60 turn out regularly for drill. Both classes, of course, drill together in squads, under the direction of competent drill officers furnished by the officers of the Tenth Regiment stationed at New Paltz.

"We have been organized about a month and through the courtesy of Col. Kline and others have had drill for one hour twice a week, on Tuesday and Thursday evenings, from 7 to 8 o'clock."

Saugerties is not lagging behind in raising a Home Defense force for the several fraternalities with drill squads have joined forces with the intention of producing one well trained, command equal to any emergency. A report on Saugerties will probably be forthcoming next week.

It is believed that smaller forces can also be maintained in the smaller villages and hamlets of the county and thus an outbreak against law and order in Ulster could be quelled by a force near the scene. In addition, these Home Defense forces will aid in recruiting and cooperate in other ways with the authorities.

Spots on the Ceiling.

More often than not, the ceiling will have black spots over the radiators and gasjets, while the other parts will still be clean. Try this method of cleaning the oiled spots: With a very soft cloth remove all the loose dirt, wiping always in one direction. Then dip a soft, dry cloth into some dry calcimine powder of the same shade as the ceiling, finish and rub gently away from the wall and toward the center and renewing the powder dressing occasionally.

Tragedy of Ignorance.

"That any man should die ignorant who is capable of knowledge, that I call a tragedy," says Carlyle.

NEW COMMISSION TO MEET IN CITY

Schoharie Condemnation Proceedings Will Require a Personal Inspection of Ashokan Reservoir and Property Needed in New Tunnel Work.

The Schoharie reservoir and Shandaken tunnel commission, consisting of the Honorable Rufus Thayer of Albany, Valentine Taylor of New York city and Clyde Porter of Schoharie, organized at the court house in this city on Friday at noon, and took the oath of office. William McM. Speer and William H. Grozan represented the city of New York, Judge Clearwater and Judge Grant of Stamford represented thirty-seven persons whose property will be taken, and Arthur Brown represented a number of others.

Mr. Speer outlined the character of the proceedings, and suggested that the commission first view the Ashokan reservoir, inspect the site of the Shandaken tunnel, and then proceed to Gilboa, in Schoharie county, and take a comprehensive view of the various properties which it will be necessary to acquire for the construction of the reservoir.

Mr. Taylor suggested that a proper method of procedure would be for the claimants to put in all their testimony in all their cases, and then for the city to call its witnesses after all the testimony for all the claimants was in. Judge Clearwater said that it was with hesitating diffidence that he must disagree with that method, which he said would result in inextricable confusion, that the experience acquired before the sixteen Ashokan condemnation commissions demonstrated that it was imperative to try each case separately in order to avoid injustice. He called the attention of the commission to the provisions of the McClintock act which provided not only the just compensation specified by the constitution of the state, but the just and equitable compensation specified in the acts of 1905 and 1906, and required extreme care, deliberation and consideration of the interest of property owners.

Mr. Brown said that he would like to have his cases set for next week, and named three which he wished to try at once. Mr. Speer said that this was entirely too precipitate; that it was desirable that the commission should be familiarized with its duty, and with the property to be taken by a careful physical inspection before proceeding to the trial of cases. He had in mind the presentation of cases by groups, that is, to take up farm lands, unimproved property, village property, manufacturing property, residential property and tunnel easements as distinct groups. Judge Clearwater said that he thought a careful physical examination was first imperative; that there was no necessity to plunge in to hearings without a thorough acquaintance with the character of the task and the duties which devolved upon the commission.

Mr. Taylor asked where Judge Clearwater thought the hearings should be held. The judge said that it seemed to him there were two convenient places—Stamford in Delaware county and Kingston; that of the two he thought Kingston afforded better facilities in the way of court rooms and hotel accommodations for commissioners, counsel and witnesses, and while he felt diffident about urging Kingston because he was a resident of the place, he was confident that upon a full consideration of all the localities the commission would regard Kingston as more central, more easily reached, and the best place. Mr. Speer and Mr. Brown both agreed to this view, and after some discussion the commission directed the entry of an order that the principal place of hearings would be Kingston; that in particular cases where the convenience of witnesses because of age or infirmity demanded, one could be held at Stamford, or where it was important to be upon the ground when the testimony was given, at Gilboa.

An adjournment was taken to Monday, June 11, when the commission will view the Ashokan reservoir, proceed over the mountain to the tunnel, and from there to Gilboa, where it would spend a couple of days going over the business and residential property.

Mrs. Etta Van Dyke and Oliver Kidney reside at the home where the funeral will be held Sunday afternoon and interment will be made in the family plot in Fantinekill cemetery.

The death of Edgar VerNooy at Napanoch on Tuesday removes one of the oldest citizens from the town, having been born at Hillsdale, N. Y., April 6, 1829, a son of Joseph and Mary Deput. He resided nearly all his long life on the home farm until a few years ago when he became owner of the late Dr. Benjamin Dever's residence at Napanoch, where he has since resided. He was twice married, his second wife was Miss Adeline Gregory of Napanoch. Four children of the first marriage survive, George, who made his home with his father; Silas of Wawarsing, Melford of Scranton, Pa., and a daughter, Mrs. Nettie James, of Napanoch. The funeral was held from the home Friday afternoon. Interment was made in the cemetery at Wawarsing.

Origin of Biscuits.

Biscuits are said to have been invented by chance in the year 1550 in France. It was the accidental result of an order given by King Henri to produce a cake that could not be secured anywhere else in the kingdom. The little son of a village baker baked the cake for which his father had made the dough, twice instead of once. This is also the origin of the name of "his cuts," which translated means baked twice.

WANTING FORBIDS SOCIALISTS TO GO TO PEACE MEETING.

Passports have been refused Morris Hillquit of New York, Victor L. Berger of Milwaukee and Algernon Lee of New York, who were designated to represent American Socialism at the international conference called to meet at Stockholm, Sweden. Action was taken under the Logan law of 1799, defining the punishment of any American who interferes as an individual, without governmental authority, in international affairs. The conference is planned to discuss peace, and it is the opinion of the allied governments that in reality it will be absolutely under the control of Berlin, and that a Socialist movement for a peace satisfactory only to Germany will be launched. English Socialists have refused to take part in it, although there will be a delegation of Russians present.

FOUND BICYCLE

Young Boy Arrested For Theft of Girl's Wheel Claims He Found It Lying in Gutter—Story to be Investigated.

Sanford Short, 16 years old, of Foxhall avenue, was arrested Friday afternoon by Chief Wood on complaint of Miss Jessie DeWitt of Whiteport on a charge of stealing her bicycle from in front of Fuller's shirt factory on Pine Grove avenue on Thursday. The Short boy has been in trouble before and has been on probation.

When arraigned this morning before Recorder Lang the boy burst into tears and through his sobs explained that he had not stolen the bicycle but had found it lying in a gutter at the corner of Highland and Foxhall avenues while on his way home from work in the lace mills. He said he had picked the wheel up and was walking away with it when a young man named Raymond Boss saw him and told him the wheel belonged to a young lady employed at Fuller's and that he had turned the wheel over to Boss who had returned it to Miss DeWitt.

When Miss DeWitt had received back the wheel she found it had been stripped of the mud guard, skirt guard and other parts, and that the seat was broken evidently in an attempt to get it loose from the wheel. Recorder Lang after hearing Short's story held the case open for a week so that Short's story of being at work all that day in the lace mill could be investigated. The wheel was stolen early that afternoon.

AMERICA TO THE IMMIGRANT.

A Former Roumanian on the Heartache of Finding a New Home.

What, I wonder, do they know of America who know only America? The more I think upon the subject the more I become persuaded that the relation of the teacher and the taught as between those who were born and those who came here must be reversed. It is the free American who needs to be instructed by the benighted races in the uplifted word that America speaks to all the world. Only from the humble immigrant, it appears to me, can he learn just what America stands for in the family of nations.

The alien must know this, for he alone seems ready to pay the heavy price for his share of America. He, unlike the older inhabitant, does not come into its inheritance by the accident of birth. Before he can become an American he must first be an immigrant. More than that, back of immigration lies emigration. And to him alone is it given to know the bitter sacrifice and the deep upheaval of the soul that are implied in those two words.

Oh, if I could show you America as we of the oppressed peoples see it! If I could bring home to you even the smallest fraction of this sacrifice and this upheaval, the dreaming and the strife, the agony and the heartache, the endless disappointments, the yearning and the despair—all of which must be ours before we can make a home for our battered spirits in this land of ours.

Perhaps, if we be young, we dream of riches and adventure, and if we be grown men we may merely seek a haven for our outraged human souls and a safe retreat for our hungry wives and children. Yet, however agitated we may feel toward our native home, we cannot but regard our leaving it as a violent severing of the ties of our life and look beyond toward our new home as a sort of glorified exile. So, whether we be young or old, something of ourselves we always leave behind in our hapless, cherished birthplaces.

And the heaviest share of our burden inevitably falls on the loved ones that remain when we are gone. We make no illusions for ourselves. Though we may expect wealth, we have no thought of returning. It is farewell forever. We are not setting out on a trip; we are emigrating. Yes, we are emigrating, and there is our experience, our ordeal, in a nutshell. It is the one way passport for us every time. For we have glimpsed a vision of America, and we start out resolved that, whatever the cost, we shall make her our own. In our heavy laden hearts we are already Americans. In our own dumb way we have grasped her message to us—M. E. Ravage in Harper's Magazine.

The Wettins of England. If the king of England were to renounce the throne and resolve to become an ordinary citizen he would be called George Wettin. How does the name Wettin come to be the king's surname? This is the answer: Queen Victoria married Albert, duke of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha, of the senior branch of the house of Saxony. The family name by which this house, dating from the middle of the tenth century, came to be known afterward was Wettin, and this was and is the surname of both branches—the Ernestine and Albertine—of the house of Saxony. The name comes from the castle of Wettin, near Magdeburg, which claimed Wittke as the founder of the race.—London Answers.

The Apache of the High Seas. The submarine is the veto power of the sea. It is purely obstructive and destructive. It contributes nothing to wealth or civilization. It is in a class apart from other craft. The other forms of water craft can be used and are used to make the world a better place to live in. They convey merchandise and passengers. They serve as a means of communication between nations and peoples. The submarine is a mere killer. It cannot even fight. It must kill furtively and secretly, like an assassin.—Edward G. Lowry in World's Work.

Fruits and Vegetables. Irish potatoes and most other vegetables and fruits tend to make the body tissues and fluids alkaline, so correcting the tendency of meat, eggs, fish and similar foods to create acid conditions. Since the body performs its work best when it is neutral or slightly alkaline, this function of fruits and vegetables is important, especially to the hearty meat eater.

Preparedness. One way to bring about a condition of national preparedness is to prepare yourself for the simplest elemental duties of a citizen and a soldier. Cigarettes before breakfast, an ingraining totem and a consequent inability to run 100 yards are just as reprehensible as a lack of patriotism.—World's Work.

Too Successful. "Why couldn't Miss Jilt get damages in her breach of promise suit? Didn't her lawyer prove the man was worth $50,000?" "Yes, but her testimony convinced the jury he wasn't worth 80 cents."—Baltimore American.

The Horse's Comment. The mule, being in a temper, kicked a few boards out of the side of the barn. "One of those fresh air cranks," commented the horse to itself.

If the thief lacks opportunity he thinks himself honest.—Sterne.

Art of Letter Writing. The art of letter writing is well defined by James Howell, who held that a true familiar letter is the art of expressing one's mind as if he were discoursing of the person to whom he writes in secret and strict terms.

Chandler Price Must Advance $200 June 30th

The price of the Chandler Six becomes $1595 on the first day of July. The present model, identically the same car, will be continued after that date.

Until that date the price remains $1395

It has always been a basic part of Chandler policy
to keep the Chandler price low

We have kept it low. Men considered the original Chandler price of $1785 established four years ago an impossible price. Later when the Chandler Company reduced that price to $1595 the trade thought we were courting disaster. Further reductions came as a positive shock to the industry.

Meanwhile the Chandler Company prospered and

Chandler business grew to front rank proportions. The Chandler car was never cheapened, but, rather, improved and refined from season to season until the whole motor car purchasing public has come to recognize the Chandler car as a car of surpassing values.

Our whole purpose has been to build the best light-weight Six and sell it at the lowest possible price.

We have sold the Chandler car for hundreds of dollars
less than cars of similar quality

We have built into the Chandler car, as fundamental features of construction and equipment, the most important features which are characteristic of the highest priced cars of all types—features which are not found in other medium-priced Sixes, or found, at best, to very slight degree.

Now, however, the Chandler price must be advanced

It must be materially advanced to cover greatly increased costs which have arisen this Spring by reason of unprecedented conditions in the material supply and labor markets and in problems of transportation.

Production costs throughout the past three months have advanced steadily and in long strides. This is a condition which we cannot control. It is a condition which we must meet.

So the Chandler price must be advanced. In making this advance we do not depart from our firm established policy of keeping the price just as low as it can be kept and still provide reasonable manufacturing profit.

At $1595 the Chandler car will still be under-priced

It will be distinctly under-priced, as compared to other cars which some may consider of similar quality. By test of any conceivable comparison this statement is a provable fact.

Now you can buy this great Six at $1395, f. o. b. Cleveland.

While the $1395 price holds, the demand will continue to greatly exceed our production, and we cannot guarantee deliveries

PUBLIC SCHOOL AFFAIRS DISCUSSED

stand the situation fully as you are in possession of our weekly reports, but for the benefit of the board of education and the public, I am making this additional report to you.

Some of our bills are paid every day, others are allowed to run until the end of the week because people delivering goods do not wish to come to the office for money.

Friday, May 11, our liabilities were: Milk, butter and eggs, $9.07; Paper plates, 2.50; Ice, .50; Salaries: Mrs. Daley, 4 1/2 days, 6.75; Mrs. Cross, 5 days, 5.25; Miss Davis, 1/2 month, 5.00; Miss Silverstein, 5 days, 2.50; Mrs. Tubby, 1/2 day, .75; Ice cream, .30; Bread, .136.

Totals . . . $48.48

We had $90.74 in cash taken. The situation resolves itself as follows:

Cash on hand . . . $90.74
Cash receipts Friday, May 11 18.79

Totals . . . $109.53

Liabilities . . . 48.48

Cash capital May 11, if robbery had not occurred . . . $61.05

We always pay all our liabilities Friday night. The robbery occurred Thursday night when our cash capital was the highest, just before our weekly disbursements were due.

We were planning to carry over into next year $20 to lay in supplies for the first week of next year. This would have left us $31.05 from which surplus you had advised us to buy fruit cans, fruit and vegetables for canning to help reduce our costs for next year when food will undoubtedly be much higher.

In view of the fact that a slight diminishing of our receipts may occur at practically any time, we feel that this small capital reserve was necessary to secure us from financial loss.

Respectfully submitted,

MAY E. DAVIS, Manager.

Making Up the Lunch Counter Money.

The lunch counter liabilities of $48.48 on May 11, the day following the robbery, had been reduced to $15.32, which would be made up by the close of school.

No. 5 Pupils at Work and Happy.

In regard to the pupils of School No. 5, which was destroyed by fire last Monday night, Superintendent Michael reported that in accordance with the authority given him by the board Tuesday night, he had employed carpenters and others on Wednesday, so that all the pupils of No. 5, except the smallest children, had been able to open school with their own teachers, comfortably housed and happy, on Thursday morning.

Bills and Pay Roll.

The finance committee reported audited bills amounting to $148.13 and the May pay roll, amounting to $10,945.59, which were ordered paid. The committee was authorized to pay the water bill when presented.

Amortizing High School Bonds.

In accordance with Mayor Canfield's amortization plan for the high school bonds, which was adopted some time ago, refunding bonds amounting to $3,500 will be issued to meet bonds for that amount which fall due next April, and $10,500 will be included in the next tax levy, to be collected in August. The refunding bonds will fall due in 1934. A resolution providing for the refunding bonds so as to eliminate that amount from the next tax levy was offered by the finance committee and adopted.

Getting Ready for Rebuilding No. 5.

The building committee reported employment of a carpenter, painter and plumber to make estimates for rebuilding School No. 5, and the employment of an architect to prepare plans.

Trustee Dederick said it had been rumored that Architect Teller had offered plans free of charge but that the committee instead had decided to pay Architect Betz. As a matter of fact, said Mr. Dederick, Mr. Betz had furnished his plans free.

The president and superintendent were authorized to make arrangements for the commencement exercises of the high school and grade schools.

101 High School Boys Now Farming.

The date for reopening the schools in September was advanced to September 10, the Monday following Labor Day, instead of the day after Labor Day, on account of the fact that there are 101 high school boys who have taken advantage of the opportunity afforded to high school students to work on farms during the spring and summer. It is not expected ed they will return to school promptly after Labor Day, but that their work will have been finished by September 10.

Commencement Week Program.

No Bids From Coal Dealers.

The committee on supplies, to which was referred with power the matter of supplying coal to the schools, reported that none of the local dealers were willing to quote prices but would take orders only at current prices. Each firm had promised to do its best in supplying the schools with coal, and orders had been divided among the dealers on an equal basis as possible.

Committee Will Get Janitors' Supplies.

The committee on supplies was authorized to purchase janitors' supplies from time to time as needed.

City Treasurer Wants Help.

City Treasurer Ward B. Everett said he understood there was some opposition by members of the board to hiring extra help in his office during the tax collection period during August. He could not go through the tax collection with only one assistant. In collecting the regular taxes during January and February, he had found extra help necessary, and every one in his office had worked from 8 a. m. to 8 p. m., and on Sundays. In the school collection period there would be a greater number of taxes; the general taxes were levied on an assessed valuation of $15,776,042, but for the school taxes $129,890 of assessed valuation which was exempt for general taxes would be added. Last year the board had paid a bill of the city treasurer for extra clerk hire.

President Gill said that when the change in the tax collection period was made, the board had been assured that there would be no extra expense to the board, and in his opinion it was up to the common council to provide the treasurer with whatever help was necessary; it was not up to the board to employ anybody as they had no jurisdiction over the treasurer. Trustee Flemming expressed a similar opinion and said that under the law the duty of making the tax collection and collecting the taxes rested with the common council.

Treasurer Everett said there would be extra printing and stationery and he estimated the total extra expense of collecting the school tax in August at $348.

He was referred to the common council, the members of the board holding that they had nothing to do with the collection of the taxes.

The board adjourned to meet on Friday evening, June 22.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By Telegraph to the Freeman.

New York, May 26.—Heavy trading in U. S. Steel Common, carrying it to 134 1/4, against a record high of 134 yesterday, again featured early trading on the stock exchange today. Sales of one thousand to two thousand shares which were snapped up as fast as offered, carried Steel up 1/4 from yesterday's close in the first ten minutes.

The other steel issues moved up in about the same amount of improvement, Republic Iron and Steel making a gain of 1 point to 93 1/4. Baldwin Locomotive rose 1/2 to 65 1/2, and American Locomotive advanced 1/4 to 73 1/4. American Can was another strong feature, advancing 1 1/2 to 51 1/2. Sloss-Sheffield was up 1 1/2 to 65. The oil stocks were all active and strong with Texas Company advancing 3 1/2 points to 221 1/2, and Mexican Petroleum 1 1/4 to 97 1/4. Copper stocks generally made fractional gains.

Steel Common at the end of the first 15 minutes dropped 1/4 to 133 3/4 from which it rallied to 133 1/4. Two weeks ago Steel sold at 114 1/4.

Steel shared speculative interest today with cotton. On the cotton exchange, where July deliveries boomed upward, $2.50 on the bale in an active market yesterday, the bull movement continued. July sold at $21.70 cents a pound and August at $21.55, the highest quotations in 42 years.

Lloyd-George's optimistic speech on the cruise against submarines was a big bull factor in cotton. This also helped the advance on the stock exchange, where traders have seen a bull argument in the senate's program of slashing the revenue bill. Many of the big corporations have made their plans and issued statements to stockholders based on the taxes proposed in the house bill. To the speculator any cut in the house schedule of taxes means so much added to the dividend funds of the corporations.

New York, May 26.—The stock market closed a week of bull activity today with a burst of buying in final trading, making the total trading for the half-day session 765,000 shares, a tremendous business for the two-hour session. The market in the last hour was the strongest that had been noted at any time during the week. Early in the hour, there were the usual recessions due to profit-taking sales, but in the final dealings, buying orders on a large scale came from many sources and advances ranging from 2 to 3 points were numerous in the industrial list.

CARNIVAL PRIZES HAVE BEEN AWARDED

The diamond ring contest and the bicycle contest in the Odd Fellows' carnival which is being held at the athletic field, came to a close Friday evening at 10 o'clock when the judges announced the contest closed and all voting stopped. Sheriff Edgar T. Shultz, chairman of the board of judges, and his assistants began immediately to count the votes and at the close announced Miss Ethel Van Wagenen winner of the diamond ring and Robert Hardwick winner of the bicycle.

An unusually large number of people attended the shows last evening and in spite of the cool weather the shows were crowded all evening. Every show on the grounds is clean and up to date. Not one show under the Krause management is of such a nature as to make one hesitate about entering. The carnival will come to a close this evening when the record crowd of the entire week will be present. With warmer weather today the show men are looking for a big attendance on the closing afternoon and night.

The prizes will be awarded to the grounds this evening at 8 o'clock. Winners of the prizes are:
Ethel Van Wagenen, diamond ring, 17.254

Grass Clippings for Poultry.

Washington, May 26.—Grass clippings are an excellent green feed for chickens. The back yard poultry flock of a family often lacks sufficient green feed, with a consequent reduction of egg and meat production. With the easy availability of lawn clippings the city poultryman can always have green feed through the summer for his chickens. The flock can be fed daily as much of the green clippings as they will eat. If any continued hovel trouble shows, the amount should be reduced. The remainder of the clippings can be allowed to dry and fed moistened during the time between lawn cuttings.

Amounts in excess can be dried for winter use. Dried grass clippings are a good green feed for winter. They can be dried and stored in sacks. These dried clippings, moistened and fed to the flock, are a very fair substitute for the succulent green feeds of summer.

Good Guess.

I must sell tires again and again to the same people.

On this principle my business has grown because I sell a tire that cuts down upkeep to a fair and reasonable figure.

People ask how far will this tire run? I tell them we rarely see a Diamond that won't go five thousand miles. Yet Diamonds are PRICED on a basis of only three thousand five hundred miles.

There is no "velvet" in the price, but plenty of "velvet" in Diamond mileage.

We carry a complete line of sizes in stock and can fill your tire wants immediately. If you can't come, telephone.

Every Diamond Tire must deliver full value in service. If ever a Diamond Tire fails, a cheerful, willing adjustment will be promptly made.

Why I Did Not
Go to College

By DONALD CHAMBERLIN

I was sixteen years old and still far from being prepared for college. There was no good school near where I lived and I concluded to hunt up a tutor. Upon inquiry I learned that there was a clergyman in charge of a little church in a neighboring village who was a classical scholar and to him I applied.

I well remember the morning I went to the parsonage for the purpose. It stood in a goodly sized yard and between two trees to which a hammock was swung was a girl dressed as a child but it seemed to me that she had outgrown her habiliments. I asked her if the Rev. Mr. Snively was at home and she said I would find him in his study.

I found a bookworm. He knew enough to prepare me for college but either he had not the faculty of imparting his knowledge or I was a dunce for I learned very slowly. One day I went to the parsonage for a recitation very poorly prepared and found the girl in the hammock. She told me that my tutor her father had been called away on some pious duty. I told her that I was not disappointed for I did not know my lesson. She asked what I was studying and when I told her it was Latin she said that perhaps she might help me.

She made room for me beside her in the hammock and opening my text book I began to construe the girl helping me the parts that I was unable to get over.

After that I went to my recitations in advance of the appointed hour in order to be tutored by Louise before going to her father. It was not long before she took her place in the hammock regularly in order that she might be ready to give me my coaching when I came. While I was ahead of time at the hammock I soon came to be behind time at the study and despite Louise's tutoring I was seldom any better prepared than before I had trailed myself of her services.

My appearance at Mr. Snively's study growing later and later he protested saying that my tardiness interfered with his accomplishing other purposes. I excused myself by saying that my delay was occasioned by an endeavor to prepare myself for my recitation. I would hereafter either come on time or not at all. If I were not on hand five minutes after the appointed time he was not to expect me.

During the week after this arrangement I was on time twice. The other days I was studying in the hammock with Louise. Unfortunately Louise was teaching me love instead of Latin. The next week, fearing that Mr. Snively would give up trying to prepare me for college and I should thereby be deprived of his daughter's love coaching I braced up and was on hand for five out of six lessons. But at these times I sat in the hammock with Louise after instead of before the lesson.

In this way a whole summer passed. One day when I went to take my lesson Mr. Snively after much humming and hawing told me that I was no nearer to passing my entrance examinations than when I had come to him. The autumn was coming on and it was already too cold to sit in the hammock with Louise. I told Mr. Snively that I preferred not to go to college till I was eighteen years old and this would give me another year. During the winter I would go to the best school I could find and in the spring I would again put myself under his tuition. He did not think much of this plan but he did not know that I was studying love instead of Latin and the hammock would not be again available till the next spring. As for studying with Louise during the winter there would be no excuse for that and since he was regarded by her parents as a child she would not be allowed to receive visits from one of the opposite sex.

But Louise was passing through a period when girls develop very rapidly. During the winter we managed to meet occasionally and when the spring opened I resumed my study of Latin with her father and my study of love with her. I found the latter as easy as the former was difficult.

However I got on better with the Latin the second summer for I found a literal translation of the Aeneid of Vergil which I was studying and I astonished my reverend preceptor with the elegance of my translations. He said that I was very weak in giving the construction but quite strong in turning the Latin text into English.

When the second summer of my preparation for college came around Louise and I had both passed the gate of manhood and womanhood and we began to think of next building. I found that I had no use for college, but I wanted a home in which to place myself and my mate. We talked the matter over and both agreed that I would be better fitted for business than a profession and if I were going into business I was at the proper age to begin. Dr. Snively agreed with me when I told him that I would make a better business man than scholar and commended my decision.

All men regret not having received a college education. But one can't have everything, and, while some of those who would have been my classmates are struggling lawyers, doctors or engineers others are impetuous beach boys without homes. I am prosperous and having married early, am surrounded with sons and daughters not very far from me in age.

No Surprise to Him.

Little Jack came home and so noticed to his mother that William had chicken pox. "But, gee, mama," he added solemnly. "It's no wonder. You just ought to see the chickens that live in his yard."

THE LATEST STYLE CHALMERS
JUST RECEIVED;
Every Inch a Quality Car

This Chalmers of today is a car any man—millionaire or miner—proudly may own. For it not only acts quality, but looks quality.

$500 more buys no more quality than you can get in this Chalmers. Possibly more car—yes, but more quality—no.

And why should anyone want a heavier car? These are days to be sensible in purchasing. Remember a heavier car costs more to run.

It is well, to bear in mind that $500 less places you in the dangerous position of buying a skimpy or "starved" automobile. To pay $500 less is to postpone the day when you will own a quality car.

Just let us punctuate a few remarks about the Chalmers. Take the wheelbase—117 inches. Plenty of size there. Then the 5-inch frame. No weaving of body or frame now in crossing car tracks or turning a corner. Instead, severe rigidity—so severe that squeaks, rattles or chassis noises are not audible.

Underneath the rear seat a heavy, formidable rear axle. Overhead a Pantasote top that comes close to finality—and with four bows not three.

A tilted windshield with plate glass. A front seat that is only 13½ inches from the floor. A rear seat that is only 14 inches. Tell that to the women of your home.

Better brakes—2 inches larger, if you please. And when you push down with your right foot you get results.

A larger steering wheel, dustproof bearings in the front wheels, all wiring encased in flexible armored tubing so that a short circuit in your ignition, or lighting, or start ing is well nigh impossible.

And each lamp now controlled by an individual fuse.

Then, too, the automatic lubrication of the engine controlled by the carburetor throttle so that the engine is getting oil directly in proportion to its load.

Any car that can do a mile in 38.1 seconds or at the rate of 91½ miles per hour as the Chalmers did on the beach at Jacksonville, Florida, which set a new time for cars of the 230 cubic inch class answers the question of speed even for the worst "fan" on the subject.

This time was made on May 1, 1917 by a Chalmers. It was of course stripped for racing purposes.

As for flexibility one need look no further. A car that traveled the highest traffic mileage ever reported in twenty four hours through the heart of Chicago on high, or a car that webbed its way through Detroit's busy traffic at the rare low speed of 29 miles per hour for twenty four hours without stopping the engine but once is a real performer.

This is just what this Chalmers did.

Come down to our show rooms and view the beauty they have drawn into this car. And then get behind the wheel for a little spin. You'll want your initials on the door inside of a mile.

All Chalmers cars are six cylinder cars.

Advice Old but Still Good

Cato recommended that the soil of a farm be good and fertile, also that there be plenty of laborers and that it be not far from a market town. Moreover that it have sufficient means of transporting its produce either by water or land. This advice although 2000 years old still holds good.

FOUND BICYCLE

Young Boy Arrested For Theft of Girl's Wheel Claims He Found it Lying in Gutter—Story to be Investigated.

Sanford Short, 16 years old, of Forhall avenue, was arrested Friday afternoon by Chief Wood on complaint of Miss Jessie DeVitt of Whiteport on a charge of stealing her bicycle from in front of Fuller's shirt factory on Pine Grove avenue on Thursday. The Short boy has been in trouble before and has been on probation.

When arraigned this morning before Recorder Lang the boy burst into tears and through his sobs explained that he had not stolen the wheel but had found it lying in a gutter at the corner of Highland and Forhall avenues while on his way home from work in the lace mills. He said he had picked the wheel up and was walking away with it when a young man named Raymond Boss saw him and told him the wheel belonged to a young lady employed at Fuller's and that he had turned the wheel over to Boss who had returned it to Miss DeVitt.

When Miss DeVitt had received back the wheel she found it had been stripped of the mud guard, skirt guard and other parts and that the seat was broken evidently in an attempt to get it loose from the wheel. Recorder Lang after hearing Short's story held the case open for a week so that Short's story of being at work all that day in the lace mill could be investigated. The wheel was stolen early that afternoon.

Now is the time to practice up shooting the rifles; learn the art of national defense, at Kingston Point Park Shooting Gallery.—Advertisement.

AMERICA TO THE IMMIGRANT.

A Former Prisoner on the Heartache of Finding a New Home.

What, I wonder, do they know of America who know only America? The name I think upon the subject the more I become persuaded that the relation of the teacher and the taught as between those who were born and those who came here must be reversed. It is the free American who needs to be instructed by the benighted races to the uplifting word that America speaks to all the world. Only from the humble immigrant, it appears to me, can he learn just what America stands for in the family of nations.

The alien must know this, for he alone seems ready to pay the heavy price for his share of America. He, unlike the older inhabitant, does not come into its inheritance by the accident of birth. Before he can become an American he must first be an immigrant. More than that, back of immigration lies emigration. And to him alone is it given to know the bitter sacrifice and the deep upheaval of the soul that are implied in those two words.

Oh, if I could show you America as we of the oppressed peoples see it! If I could bring home to you even the smallest fraction of this sacrifice and this upheaval, the dreaming and the strife, the agony and the heartache, the endless disappointments, the yearning and the despair—all of which must be ours before we can make a home for our battered spirits in this land of yours.

Perhaps, if we be young, we dream of riches and adventure, and if we be grown men we may merely seek a haven for our outraged human souls and a safe retreat for our hungry wives and children. Yet, however agitated we may feel toward our native home, we cannot but regard our leaving it as a violent severing of the ties of our life and look beyond toward our new home as a sort of glorified exile. So, whether we be young or old, something of ourselves we always leave behind in our hapless, cherished birthplaces.

And the heaviest share of our burden inevitably falls on the loved ones that remain when we are gone. We make no illusion for ourselves. Though we may expect wealth, we have no thought of returning. It is farewell forever. We are not setting out on a trip; we are emigrating. Yes, we are emigrating, and there is our experience, our ordeal, in a nutshell. It is the one way passport for us every time. For we have glimpsed a vision of America, and we start out resolved that, whatever the cost, we shall make her our own. In our heavy laden hearts we are already Americans. In our own dumb way we have grasped her message to us.—M. E. Savage in Harper's Magazine.

The Wettins of England.
If the king of England were to renounce the throne and resolve to become an ordinary citizen he would be called George Wettin. How does the name Wettin come to be the king's surname? This is the answer: Queen Victoria married Albert, Duke of Saxony-Coburg-Gotha, of the senior branch of the house of Saxony. The family name by which this house, dating from the middle of the tenth century, came to be known afterward was Wettin, and this was and is the surname of both branches—the Ernestine and Albertine—of the house of Saxony. The name comes from the castle of Wettin, near Magdeburg, which claimed Whitehall as the founder of the race.—London Answers.

The Apache of the High Seas.
The submarine is the veto power of the sea. It is purely obstructive and destructive. It contributes nothing to wealth or civilization. It is in a class apart from other craft. The other forms of water craft can be used and are used to make the world a better place to live in. They convey merchandise and passengers. They serve as a means of communication between nations and peoples. The submarine is a mere killer. It cannot even fight. It must kill furtively and secretly, like an assassin.—Edward G. Lowry in World's Work.

Fruits and Vegetables.
Irish potatoes and most other vegetables and fruits tend to make the body tissues and fluids alkaline, so correcting the tendency of meat, eggs, fish and similar foods to create acid conditions. Since the body performs its work best when it is neutral or slightly alkaline, this function of fruits and vegetables is important, especially to the hearty meat eater.

Preparedness.
One way to bring about a condition of national preparedness is to prepare yourself for the simplest elemental duties of a citizen and a soldier. Cigarettes before breakfast, an ingrowing toenail and a consequent inability to run 100 yards are just as reprehensible as a lack of patriotism.—World's Work.

Too Successful.
"Why couldn't Miss Jilt get damages in her breach of promise suit? Didn't her lawyer prove the man was worth $50,000?"
"Yes, but her testimony convinced the jury he wasn't worth 50 cents."—Baltimore American.

The Horse's Comment.
The mule, being in a temper, kicked a few boards out of the side of the barn.
"One of those fresh air cranks," commented the horse to itself.

If the thief lacks opportunity he thinks himself honest.—Stearns.

Art of Letter Writing.
The art of letter writing is well defined by James Howell, who held that a true familiar letter is the art of expressing one's mind as if he were discussing of the person to whom he writes in explicit and strict terms.

When the war started three years ago nobody wanted U. S. Steel at $40 per share; nobody could see its value. Today it is selling at $127 a share, paying extra dividends, and everybody wishes he had bought it. You have accumulated wonderful profits during the past three years.

You are bound to have tremendous prosperity during the coming years.

The most dangerous period in the life of an individual, a corporation or institution is when it is prosperous. It is then that one is apt to make mistakes because one "knows it all."
